Farm Surplus 'Give-Away' Is U. S. Plan

Perishable Produce Will Go to Public, Private Relief Units

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Agriculture Department is setting up machinery for giving away Government stocks of surplus perishable farm products.

The products can be given to Federal agencies, public and private relief agencies in this country and foreign relief organizations.

Handling the give-away job will be the Department's far-flung Production and Marketing Administration under the terms of the 1949 Farm Act which went into effect Jan. 1. That Act authorizes donation of Government surpluses when they can no longer be held without going to waste.

So far, no specific commodity has been put on the give-away list. The Department has more than $3,500,000,000 invested in surpluses under farm price support programs.

The bulk of these surplus stocks are storable commodities such as cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, soy beans, dried beans, and other grain which can be held for long periods. It is unlikely that any of them will be put on the donation list.

Commodities held by the Department which might fall eventually in the give-away class include: potatoes, dried eggs, dried milk and butter.

The law sets up a priority list in making donations. Top priority is given the Munitions Board and other Government agencies for exchange for materials not produced in this country.

Next in line are the Federal-State school lunch program, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Federal, State and local public welfare agencies, and private welfare agencies operating in this country and its territories, in that order.

Last on the list are private welfare agencies assisting the needy abroad.

Agencies receiving surpluses must make sure that the products will not get back into regular channels of trade to compete with price support operations. Also the agencies must not reduce their expenditures for food as a result of the donations.

Gifts for foreign relief will be limited to United States voluntary non-profit relief agencies directed by active and responsible American citizens. The agencies must not be engaged in commercial or political activities and their purposes must be in line with interests of this country.

Commodities distributed abroad must be given free of charge to persons receiving them.

PINCH FOR TRUMAN — Linda Brown, five-year-old March of Dimes poster girl, of San Antonio, Texas, tickles the ear of President Truman as the 1950 drive for funds to fight infantile paralysis gets under way in Washington. Linda was also the 1949 poster girl.

'DIMES' GIRL, 5, IN WHITE HOUSE

Tweaks President's Ear

WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Truman had his ear tweaked yesterday by a blonde and didn't seem to mind it at all.

The ear-tweaking was performed by a pretty little five-year-old girl, Linda Brown, of San Antonio, Texas.

The President didn't even move his ear while photographs were being made in the White House at the annual ceremony launching the March of Dimes campaign for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Linda was last year's "poster" girl for the paralysis campaign.

She posed with the President, this year's poster girl, eight-year-old Wanda Wiley, of Austin, Texas; the 1947 poster girl, seven-year-old Nancy Drury, of Louisville, Ky.; the 1948 poster boy, five-year-old Terry Tullos, of Laurel, Miss., and nine-year-old Donald Anderson, of Warm Springs, Ore.

All State Institutions Under One Board Favored

Passage of an Administration bill placing all State institutions under a single Board of Control was predicted by political observers last night as time neared for the opening of the legislative session here Monday.

Gov. Talmadge is expected to recommend creation of the Board of Control to operate:

Milledgeville State Hospital for the Insane, which has been involved in several disputes in recent years. It is directed by the State Welfare Department at present.

Battey State Hospital for tubercular patients, at Rome, which is operated by the State Health Department.

Gracewood Home for Mental Defective Children, at Augusta, which is supervised by the Welfare Department.

Boys' Training Schools at Milledgeville and Augusta, supervised by the Welfare Department.

Girls' Training Schools in Atlanta and Macon, operated by the Welfare Department.

School for Blind, at Macon, and School for Deaf, at Cave Springs, which are operated by the Department of Education.

The Governor would name the members of this statutory board. An administrative officer would head the Board. If passed, the plan would become effective Jan. 1, 1951.

The plan was worked out by Talmadge and Dean Lombard Kelly, of the University of Georgia Medical School. Kelly has long sought such a system under which Medical School interns could be used in State hospitals. The revolt of Milledgeville doctors prompted the Governor to recommend a new set-up.

Talmadge Message To Be Broadcast

Gov. Talmadge says his annual message to the Legislature at 11 a. m. Monday will be carried by a network of 40 to 50 Georgia radio stations.

Talmadge will speak to a joint session of the House and Senate on the opening day of the 1950 adjourned session. The speech is expected to be 45 minutes long.

WCON will rebroadcast the address at 8:45 p. m. Monday, after carrying highlights of the speech at 6:30 p. m.

4-Lane Road To Extend To Emerson

The State Highway Department expects to stretch the four-lane highway U. S. 41 as far north as Emerson by about mid-1951, Chief Engineer M. L. Shadburn says.

The super North-South artery now runs from Atlanta to just north of Marietta. The Highway Department has an additional 12½ miles under contract. This should be completed this year.

Another 3½ miles has been advertised for bids. About 300 work days will be necessary to complete the 3½-mile stretch, Shadburn said, because about 1,000,000 yards of grading will be required. This should be completed in mid-1951, giving a four-lane thoroughfare from Atlanta to Emerson, some 34 miles.

Present plans call for extension of the four-lane speedway to the junction of the Rome highway, about 44 miles north of Atlanta. Shadburn said he could not say when this leg of the highway would be added.

Practically the entire route is being relocated to straighten curves and level grades.

Fog Due To Yield To Mercury Drop

Atlanta's muggy weather is slated to hold over today, with continued mild temperatures. Occasional rains also are on the bill.

The forecaster predicts that the rains will cease by nightfall and cooler weather will set in. Tomorrow's forecast is "cloudy and continued cool."

The high temperature today is expected to be 64, the low 46. Tomorrow's high is a predicted 58.

Friday, the Thirteenth— yesterday —fulfilled the predictions of the Weatherman and the soothsayers with drizzling rain and jinxes. The Constitution's weather reporter was one of the jinx victims. He announced that yesterday would be the only Friday the Thirteenth in 1950. As all the people who telephoned The Constitution well knew, there are two—the other in October.

17 Hurt as Bus Rams Snowplow

GOVERNMENT CAMP, Ore.—(UP)—Seventeen persons were injured yesterday when a Trailways bus crashed into the rear end of a snowplow on the Mount Hood Highway, four miles south of here.

State police said the bus, moving through a blizzard near Waupinitia cut-off, crashed into the rotary snowplow which also was traveling eastward.

Details about the injuries were not disclosed immediately.

The bus had been en route from Portland to Salt Lake City.

Heavy Buying Spurs Stocks

NEW YORK—(INS)—The stock market snapped back sharply in the final hour yesterday to close selectively higher, after two early new losses of fractions to three selling movements had brought points in the leaders.

The rally was accompanied by heavy buying which delayed the ticker as much as two minutes.

International Telephone led the comeback, advancing up to 12⅞ for a gain of 1⅞. American Woolen rose 1⅛ and Admiral Radio gained two.

Southern Company gained to 12⅜, after a dip to 12¼ Thursday.

Old-line leaders such as U. S. Steel, and Chrysler made up most of their early declines.

Southern Pacific and Illinois Central were among the rails to reach higher ground.

Bonds also joined in the recovery with rails in the forefront.

Curb stocks followed the lead of big board issues to higher ground.

INGRID'S ROBERTO PLEADS:

Drugged at 1st Marriage

TURIN, Italy—(UP)—Italian Motion Picture Director Roberto Rossellini asked the Turin Court of Appeals to annul his marriage to his wife, Marcella, on grounds he was under the influence of drugs when he married her.

The request was made so that Rossellini could obtain Italian approval of his Austrian divorce, which would clear the way for him to marry Actress Ingrid Bergman in Italy.

Gino Sotis, attorney for the director, told the court during a two-hour hearing that Rossellini was "under the influence of a drug and incapable of will and understanding when the marriage was celebrated."

The divorce which Rossellini seeks to have recognized in Italy is the one dissolving his marriage to the former Marcella de Marchis, now 33, at Civitavecchia, near Rome, in 1936. It was obtained on the same grounds—that he was under the influence of drugs.

The divorce decree was obtained in Wiener-Neustadt, Austria, on Dec. 23, 1949, with the consent of both parties. Both Rossellini and Marcella also joined in requesting the latest action to have the marriage wiped off the books in Italy.

Benning Glider Crash Kills 12; 4 Seriously Hurt

FORT BENNING — (AP) — Twelve men died yesterday when an Air Force glider tipped a wing on a runway and crashed, strewing bodies and wreckage for 700 feet.

Five men were in the hospital at near-by Lawson Air Base, four in serious condition.

Cause of the crash was not known.

Ten of the victims were members of Company A, Airborne Battalion. The other two victims, both of whom died in the hospital, were the pilot and the instructor.

The crash was the first fatal accident at the Glider School since 1946 when one man was killed.

Capt. A. C. Parker, of the Infantry Center Public Relations Office, said 15 of the men aboard were student paratroopers who were taking glider training in conjunction with their airborne training.

All of the students were scheduled to make their final jumps today and receive the insignia—curved wings surrounding a parachute—of the paratrooper.

The glider, Capt. Parker added, was one of two just released by a tow plane. The second landed safely.

First Lt. Melvin M. L. Minnix, pilot of the companion glider released with the ill-fated craft, said the first glider crashed at a 30-degree angle and that wreckage was instantly strewn over the field "like confetti after a parade."

Another eye witness to the crash was Maj. Lloyd Wills, of Hartford, Ala., who said:

"I saw the glider coming in to land. Apparently the left wing hit the ground, causing it to crash. The glider just disintegrated."

Major Wills, an instructor in the Air Landing Group of the Airborne Department of the Infantry Center, said he was about 1,000 feet away at the time of the crackup.

The names of the dead and injured could not be obtained immediately pending notification of next of kin.

Bodies Found Near Savannah

SAVANNAH — (INS) — Air Force salvage crews have found the last four bodies of 11 crewmen who perished when their B-50 crashed in flames in the rice marshes near Savannah on Dec. 22.

The bodies had been submerged in the muck of the swampy South Carolina marshlands. The victims were identified as:

Staff Sgt. Billy C. Bristol, Tucson, Ariz.; Capt. Anthony C. Colandro, Baltimore, Md.; Staff Sgt. Manson L. Greig, Meadow, Texas; Tech. Sgt. Leonard B. Hughes, Dennison, Texas.

The other seven bodies—including that of Rogers Hornsby, Jr., son of the former major league baseball star—were located by salvage crews in previous operations.

Solons Vote Cox Motion, FEPC-Aimed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A surprise move which could wreck much of the Truman Fair Deal program in this session of Congress was started today in the House Rules Committee — and informed congressmen believe it had a good chance to succeed.

Southern Democrats and Republicans teamed up to force through a motion, 9 to 2, asking the House to restore the Committee's old power to bottle up bills.

Working together, such a coalition thus would have life and death power over large portions of President Truman's legislative program.

There was reported to be a great deal of sentiment in the House favoring a return of the Committee's power which was shorn away last January. The existing rule, permitting chairman of other committees to by-pass the rules group and bring legislation to the house floor, reportedly was adopted for the very purpose of keeping the Truman program from being blockaded.

House Speaker Rayburn, of Texas, administration leader, appeared glum over yesterday's sudden turn of events but declined comment. The Committee's chairman, Sabath, Democrat, Illinois, said he assumed the change would go through "if the coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats prevails."

The Rules Committee action came after a wrangle over the administration's Fair Employment practices legislation. The motion was made by Rep. Cox, Democrat, Georgia, foe of the measure which is before the Rules group.

There were two factors leading to the 9 to 2 vote:

1. Opposition by some of the 12 Committee members to the Civil Rights program and to the Fair Deal program of social legislation.

2. A feeling that the Committee ought to have more say-so about funnelling legislation to the House floor for action.

Not all those who favor return of the Rules Committee's power can be classed as opponents of Civil Rights bills or the Fair Deal program.

An important factor in the minds of some is veterans' bonus legislation. Many who oppose it because of the cost wouldn't like to see it come up in the House where they would have to go on record for or against in an election year. Under the present rule, Chairman Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, of the House Veterans Committee can force such a bill to the floor.

A change in the rule also would be popular with many Southern Democrats who see a chance for thwarting action on the President's Civil Rights legislation—and with Republicans who would hope to see large sections of Mr. Truman's program pigeonholed.

All aboard except the pilot were completing their air training as the glider smashed into the ground as it came in for a landing.

Incubator Graduate Goes Home

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Alpharetta will get a new, doll-sized citizen today.

Tiny Rebecca Jane Benson, who weighed in at just two pounds at Crawford Long Hospital Nov. 12, is going home to Alpharetta this afternoon.

But she now tips the scales at five pounds, one ounce.

"Don't forget that one ounce," pleaded the infant's mother, Mrs. J. B. Benson.

Papa Benson, who operates a steam shovel for Fulton County, admitted he's "mighty proud" of their first offspring, regardless of her pint size.

"I'm a little nervous about looking after her," put in Mrs. Benson, "but we'll sure do our best."

Rebecca Jane, who arrived three months prematurely, spent her first two months of life in an incubator.

She was given oxygen the first week. And for three weeks she was fed a special formula through a tube inserted in her stomach.

Like most babies, she lost weight after birth. At one point, she weighed only one pound, 12 ounces. But she's now gaining nicely on a "skimmed milk formula."

Hospital attendants said it was very rare for six-month, two-pound babies to survive, but black-haired, blue-eyed Rebecca Jane now has every prospect for health and happiness!

Holtzendorf Is Indicted

Harold H. (Buddy) Holtzendorf, Jr., of 2790 Lenox Rd., N. E., has been indicted by a Federal Grand Jury here on three counts of possessing and passing counterfeit money and two counts of attempted escape from Fulton Tower.

Holtzendorf, son of a prominent Atlanta dentist, also faces State robbery charges. True bills returned by the Federal Grand Jury yesterday charge he conspired with Jett Allen Smith, Abe Guller, Henry Gary, Elmer Mims Hughes, also indicted, in a conspiracy to pass $1,000 worth of counterfeit $20 bills. Gary is the only other person charged with actually passing counterfeit bills.

Joe Lee Bishop was indicted jointly with Holtzendorf on charges of attempted escape.

Court records attached to the indictments showed Holtzendorf's counsel has twice recently obtained permission for Holtzendorf to receive the services of a psychiatrist.

FEARED LAZINESS, LEAPS TO DEATH

DETROIT — (UP) — Bookkeeper Frank M. Curtis leaped to his death in the Detroit River yesterday because he feared he was getting lazy, police reported.

"I have come to hate my job and become lazy," Curtis, 51, wrote his wife in a note discovered in his parked car. "Please forgive me."

Relatives said Curtis had been "extremely nervous." The body was recovered.

Joe's 'Divvy' Is Joe's Own, VA Declares

They can't take that GI insurance dividend check away from you, Joe.

The $50,000,000 windfall of GI insurance checks Georgia veterans will begin receiving next week is exempt from seizure for payment of debts, as well as income taxes.

Veterans Administration spokesmen announced the dividend checks "may not be withheld from veterans as security from indebtness due an individual or firm."

It issued the notice after a number of veterans requested checks be mailed to business establishments. Even Joe's wife might be included in the VA's further warning that "no one has the legal right to withhold dividend checks from veterans, either for settlement of a debt or for any other reasons."

Georgia veterans with three low figures at the end of their service serial numbers can expect checks first. The Treasury Department has printed its first batch, and the Post Office Department will start mailing them Monday.

They'll go out at the rate of 200,000 a day and 1,000,000 a week. Checks will range from 60 cents to $528, and the national average is expected to be $175 per veteran.

Some 286,000 Georgia ex-GIs will share in the pay-off, with initial checks slated to hit mail boxes all over the State by the middle or end of next week.

BOY HOPEFUL

Bladder Shifted In Operation

Thirteen-year-old Lamar Ramey, of near Toccoa, was reported in "good" condition early today at Emory University Hospital where he underwent a rare and serious operation.

The operation was the first of two planned to make Lamar "like other fellows." Born with his bladder outside his body, Lamar has never been able to go to school.

Emory doctors said it would be "several" days before they would know the extent of the first operation's success.

Lamar, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford McCoy Ramey, of Eastanollee, has attracted the interest of hundreds of people in the Toccoa area and throughout Georgia.

Residents of Lamar's home county of Stephens have raised more than $1,500 in recent weeks to finance the boy's costly operations by an Atlanta urologist. The story of his plight and needs was broadcast over Toccoa's Radio Station WLET.

Although the operation was considered serious, Emory attendants stressed that Lamar was in good physical condition.

Life Term Given In Bartow Death

CARTERSVILLE — A verdict of guilty of murder with a recommendation of mercy was returned here last night against James L. Hammond, tried in Bartow Superior Court on a charge of slaying Ernest Henry Kay, 20-year-old Cartersville man on Dec. 27.

The verdict automatically carries a life-term sentence and attorneys for Hammond, former Judge Claude and Carter Pittman stated they would file a motion for a new trial.

Hammond's trial on a murder charge began here Thursday. He was accused of slaying Kay on a lonely road, five miles from here.

'UNTIL CITY'S HEART SOFTENS'

Stray Pets Abandoned; S. P. C. A. 'Out of Funds'

By ALEX JOINER

Atlanta's ailing and stray animals have been "reluctantly" abandoned by the 13-month-old Atlanta Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Members of the Board of the Society have voted unanimously to abandon all rescue activity until "the callous heart of Atlanta softens."

"Hundreds of Atlanta animals have been befriended by the Society since its organization in November of 1948," said Mrs. George H. Roberts, President. "But an increasing number of calls diverted to the Society from the City Pound and the Humane Society make it impossible for us to go on without adequate funds for a centrally located haven and a pickup truck."

The Board said that the overwhelming demand for humane rescue work, which it maintains is done by no other organization in the community, has "proved the value of the SPCA principles." It explained that the Society has secured veterinary treatment for scores of sick animals, many of which have been "boarded" by Society members in their own homes until other suitable homes could be found for them.

Mrs. Myra Scott Eastman and Mrs. Roy Zimmerman were elected as a committee by the Board to formulate plans for a campaign to raise sufficient funds for the Society's needs.

THE PROW OF DEATH—Parts of wreckage of the British submarine Truculent are imbedded in prow of the Swedish tanker Divina after a collision in the Thames estuary. The submarine, which accounted for 20 Japanese ships during the war, sank within a minute after being rammed. Death toll aboard the sub has been set at 65.

Sub Disaster Toll Set at 65; Colliding Tanker Is Held

CHATHAM, England—(AP)—The British Royal Navy said last night 65 men perished in the sinking of the submarine Truculent.

Hope was abandoned for 55 missing men, believed entombed in the hulk on the muddy bed of the Thames Estuary. Divers fought time and tide in vain yesterday for a sign of life in the wreck.

Ten bodies had been given up by the sea.

Only 15 of the 80 aboard the 1,090-ton Pacific war veteran escaped after her collision with the 643-ton Swedish tanker Divina at 7 p. m. Thursday night.

The Admiralty placed an arrest order on the tanker. She is to be held until her owners post bail to cover the loss of the Truculent.

A statement by the Admiralty, issued about 24 hours after the accident, said "No hope can now be entertained" for any further survivors. The Admiralty first believed 76 persons were aboard. A spokesman said a recheck showed the Truculent carried six officers, 56 enlisted men and 18 naval dockyard workers.

This was the greatest peacetime British submarine disaster since June, 1939, when the submarine Thetis sank in Liverpool Bay with a loss of 99 lives. It far exceeded deaths in any similar American accident.

The Admiralty spokesman said lifting of the hull will be an operation of three or four days. The speed, he said, depends upon how badly the hull is damaged, the tidal currents and the position of the submarine in the mud.

The divers, some working in conventional rigs and others in web-footed frogmen's suits, reported at least four of the Truculent's compartments were flooded by the dirty water of the Thames.

Operating at depths ranging with the tide from 42 to 54 feet, they rapped all around the broken hull, but drew no answering taps.

"I couldn't hear a thing," one diver told his shipmates.

Lt. C. P. Bowers, the Truculent's bearded commander, was among the 15 men who were rescued.

"She had no chance," Bowers said. "She went down like a stone. She went down almost before we realized what had happened."

The Truculent, which sank 20 Japanese ships during World War II, went down about 12 miles off Sheerness, a British Naval Arsenal city on the south side of the estuary that spreads fanlike into the North Sea.

The Divina entered Sheerness harbor yesterday under escort of the minesweeper Cadmus and there, by Admiralty order, was placed under arrest. The tanker had been bound from Ipswich to Purfleet with a cargo of petroleum.

The Truculent was returning from a test cruise after refitting at the Naval dockyard in Chatham, which lies on the Medway River about 10 miles southwest of the point where the Medway joins the Thames at Sheerness.

WOMAN SAYS HUSBAND SET HER DOWN ON RED HOT STOVE; HE IS FINED $25

Giving his wife an improvised "hot seat" cost Roy Turner, 50-year-old Negro, a $27 fine in Recorder's Court.

Ptl. K. A. Wooster and A. P. Barfield said they received a call to the Turner home at 67 Clark St., S. E., yesterday and found the wife, Mary Turner, badly burned.

"He (Turner) grabbed me and set me down on a red-hot stove, Your Honor," she told Recorder A. W. Callaway. "Den he held me so I couldn't get up."

The Negro woman explained she had not been able to sit down on lie down on her back since the incident.

Patrolmen, a bit red-faced, admitted they could think of no specific city ordinance or State law to cover the "hot seat." They eventually booked Turner for "assault and battery."

After considering the evidence, Callaway decided upon a city fine.

Summon Defense Heads To Air Views on Formosa

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee bowed to Republican demands yesterday and summoned Defense Secretary Louis Johnson and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to give the military's viewpoint on the Administration's hands-off China-Formosa policy.

The Committee asked them to appear Jan. 26 after again hearing Secretary of State Dean Acheson. He testified in closed session on the Far Eastern situation.

Acheson Thursday reaffirmed that he does not consider Formosa, the last stronghold of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops, a part of the U. S. defense line in the Far Pacific or of great strategic value. Both he and President Truman have made it clear that no aid or advice will be sent to the Communist-threatened island, 100 miles off the China coast.

Military leaders, including the joint chiefs, reportedly have taken the opposite view and there have been repeated Republican demands Johnson and Bradley be summoned to say whether the military was consulted in drafting the Formosa policy.

The military leaders were said to have opposed sending troops or naval vessels to Formosa, but did favor limited U. S. arms aid and advice to Chiang in an effort to bolster the morale of his men, if for no other reason.

But Acheson, in a sharp delineation of the President's Far Eastern policy before the National Press Club Thursday, stressed that there was nothing the United States could do to help Chiang since he does not even have the support of the Chinese people.

He disclosed that Russia is taking over four northern areas of China and warned against the United States launching any "foolish adventures" that could be interpreted as meddling in China's affairs. He predicted the wrath of the Chinese people some day would turn back the Russians.

Douglas Mills' $300,000 Deal Waits Court Nod

Hope ran high in Douglasville this morning.

A textile concern has made a firm bid of $300,000 in U. S. District Court here for properties of the Douglas Mills, closed down for months. Some 450 workers had lost their jobs in the closing.

The bid was made in open court before Judge Frank Hooper by Ben Johnson, of Spartanburg, S. C., attorney representing John Stieffer Company, of Wheeling, W. Va., operators of the Glendale Mills in South Carolina.

The bid is subject to approval of the court. The bidders stated that time was important and that the bid was subject to confirmation within twenty days. In that time, inventories and properties of the Douglas Mills would be checked by the bidder.

Johnson indicated that his clients intend to put the mill in operation soon after confirmation of the sale, which must be cleared through a trusteeship administered by Harvey Hill, Trust Officer of the Citizens & Southern National Bank.

Recently, the closed mills were in the news when a group of mill workers gathered to pray for reopening.

Cripple Slayer Denied Mercy

Vester McBurnett, of Rome, must die for the slaying of Horace Williamson, a crippled storekeeper near Cave Spring, the State Board of Pardons and Paroles has decided.

In a 2-to-1 opinion, the Board refused to commute the death sentence. Mrs. Rebecca Rainey dissented to the decision signed by Chairman Edward Everett and Member Eugene Wilburn.

In another case, the Board made an exception to its rules in order to release Theodore Sheppard, after he had served only two and one-half years of an eight to 15-year term for slaying in Candler County. Chairman Everett said the Board felt the sentence was excessive and that Sheppard would be a good parole risk.

Reds 'Walk' As Chinese Stay in UN

The Russians walked out of the United Nations Security Council again yesterday after the Council refused by a vote of six to three to unseat National China's delegation, headed by T. F. Tsiang.

Only India and Yugoslavia supported Russia. Britain and Norway abstained.

FOREIGN ROUNDUP

Then Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik made a brief speech and led his delegation from the chamber, repeating his tactics of Tuesday.

In Moscow the Soviet navy newspaper Red Fleet charged that the United States and other Western countries are making all-out efforts to get Russian military secrets. It warned all "Soviet warriors" to be on guard.

The newspaper's charge followed an announcement that the death penalty has been restored in the Soviet Union for crimes of treason, spying and sabotage. This aroused Western speculation that another purge was planned, possibly similar to that of the 1930's when hundreds were jailed and executed to wipe out any possible opposition to Stalin.

Italian Communists demanded that Italy break with the Atlantic alliance and cast off American economic ties when a new Italian Government is formed. The demands presumably were placed before Pres. Luigi Einaudi when he interviewed Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti. Einaudi is expected to reappoint Premier Alcide de Gasperi to form the new government. De Gasperi and his cabinet resigned yesterday to prepare for a reorganization of the government.

Six of the eight British Commonwealth nations complained at their conference in Colombo, Ceylon, that devaluation of the British pound and other sterling area currencies had little effect in increasing exports to dollar countries. Only the United Kingdom and Canada reported increases in exports to dollar areas since devaluation.

Franco-Polish relations fell again, as France expelled 17 more Poles, boosting to 75 the number ousted from that country since November. Poland arrested four French citizen in Warsaw, presumably in retaliation. The Poles were sent out of France after being charged with interfering in French politics.

Police, who listed the case as an apparent suicide, found a 12-guage shotgun by the body and a note bearing the single word "sorry." They also found $12.60 for the man's hotel bill.

Mrs. Cyrus Marshall, of Brooklyn, a sister-in-law of Marshall, was summoned to identify the body. She said that Mr. Marshall was a salesman and had been ill lately. He was about 65 years old.

Need for More Teachers Emphasized by Dr. Allman

Colleges and teacher training schools are filling only one sixth of the annual teacher vacancies in this State, Assistant State School Supt. J. I. Allman reports.

Georgia is losing 5,000 teachers annually, while her colleges are turning out only 1,600 new teachers, he says.

Dr. Allman, who addressed the Founders Day program at Mercer University yesterday, declared that Georgia's teacher program needs:

Thousands of new teachers to fill vacancies caused by permanent resignations; hundreds to fill positions caused by rapidly increasing school population; hundreds to fill positions caused by an ever increasing daily attendance; more emphasis on teachers for primary and elementary work, and qualified teachers to meet the demands of the world situation in the 20th century.

SHARPSBURG NATIVE

Ex-Slave Dies

ALCOA, Tenn.—(AP)—"Aunt Cilla" Sim, a former Negro slave who claimed she would have been 117 years of age next March 15, died at the home of a son here.

"Aunt Cilla," as she was known here, was a native of Sharpsburg, Ga.

Her son, Jeff Whitney, 69, said she was at one time a slave for the George Edward Smith family of Coweta County, Georgia.

FBI To Probe Cairo Flog Report of Italian Minister

The Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D. C., will study the claim of a five-foot Italian Pentacostal minister that he was beaten with pistols and shotguns at Cairo, Ga., Thursday night by a masked band of white men who he said kidnapped him from a Negro church.

John C. Bills, agent in charge of the Atlanta FBI office, said the FBI here had forwarded esults of their investigation to the Washington headquarters, where it will be determined whether the Justice Department can enter the case.

The Rev. Michael Picardi, 58, of Columbus, Ohio, told Atlanta newsmen he was seized from the pulpit of the Negro church, where he had been conducting a revival, and pushed into a waiting car that sped through the back roads of Grady County.

He said five men, masked with handkerchiefs, took him from the church without molesting his Negro congregation. He said his abductors beat him repeatedly about the head and body with the butt ends of pistols and shotguns. They asked him why he was preaching in a Negro church, he related, and ther gave him 30 minutes to get out of town.

At Cairo, Sheriff C. H. Strickland told the Associated Press he had received no report of the flogging. He said he had talked with Picardi Wednesday, when he received a report the minister was living with Negroes.

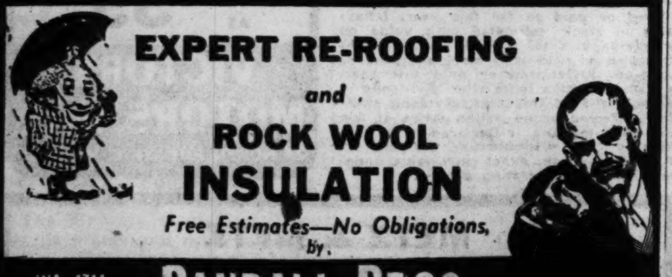

"I believe it was the woman at whose house he was living who called me," the Sheriff said. "I went by to see him, and told him it wasn't customary for white people to stay in a house with Negroes. He said he would leave. We came back about an hour and a half later and his car was gone. That's the last time I saw him."

Mercer Plans Education School In New Program

MACON—(AP)—Mercer University yesterday revealed plans for the establishment of a school of education and for the expansion of its facilities for women students. The announcements came after the regular Founders' Day trustee meeting on the university campus.

The board of trustees officially approved plans for a campaign to raise $600,000 with which to endow the proposed school of education. A promotion committee was provided for to work with the Georgia Baptist convention officials in laying the groundwork. Committee members were not named yesterday.

Dr. Spright Dowell, president of Mercer, in his annual report to the trustees, state that the school of education, in its transition period, would be supported by current funds until such time as the permanent endowment could be raised. No date for the campaign was announced.

Dr. Dowell also announced that necessary steps have already been taken to add two more faculty members to the department of education in order to increase furthur the scope of the work.

The program for increased women's facilities calls for the enlargement of the present Mary Erin Porter hall for women. The addition, in the form of a wing for the building, is expected to cost approximately $100,000 and will accommodate nearly 100 additional women students.

Six newly-elected trustees took their places at the meeting yesterday. They were the Rev. D. J. Evans, of Atlanta; R. L. Cousins, Atlanta; Bela Lancaster, LaGrange; Howard M. Collier, Griffin; Columbus Robers, Jr., Columbus, and Warrent Timmerman, Macon.

At chapel exercises earlier in the day the university celebrated the 117th anniversary of its founding. Dr. J. I. Allman and Dr. George Sparks, of Atlanta, were principal speakers.

Ohio Flood Rises; Storm Hits N'west

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The swollen Ohio River spilled across more acres of farmland and town property yesterday, but a forecast of colder, clear weather eased the immediate threat of new widespread floods in the Midwest.

A blizzard hit the Pacific Northwest, snarling traffic in Western Washington and Oregon. Ice and snow-covered highways caused four deaths in Western Washington. The Winter's worst storm whipped coastal and inland waters into a fury.

At the same time, a frigid new storm whistled toward chilled California, a freak windstorm accompanied by heavy rain felled trees and flattened grain storage bins in Central Illinois and dense fog blanketed Iowa.

Rain splashed again on Ohio River Valley. Forecasters revised upwards again their predicted flood crests for points along the Kentucky-Illinois border. Some communities started evacuations and braced for major floods.

Outcome of the worst flood threats of the season will rest on weather conditions in the immediate future. A mass of cold air moving down from Canada brought the promise of clearing skies. If new rains hold off until the crests pass downstream, the threat may fizzle.

The water is going down on some smaller Midwest rivers and along the Cincinnati stretch of the Ohio. The 20,000 residents of Vincennes, Ind., breathed easier when the flooded Wabash River began leveling off at 27.3 feet against the city's flood wall. The Weather Bureau said the rise was virtually over.

At Memphis, Tenn., Col. Louis H. Foote, U. S. District Engineer, ordered flood control experts into the Cairo, Ill., area to observe conditions. The Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, both riding high, join at Cairo. Foote said his order was a precautionary move.

The mercury slipped to the season's low of 34 degrees in Los Angeles and puddles froze over in some suburbs.

Harold A. Crane, Agricultural Commissioner for San Bernardino County, said two major freezes in Southern California this season have caused a loss of approximately 15 percent to citrus growers in the county. He said there would be further losses from reduction in the grade of fruit. Some areas, he added, would have losses of 35 percent.

Zoning Board Denies Cut in Living Space

Atlanta's Board of Zoning Appeals has turned thumbs down on any substantial variations in land space requirements for construction of small efficiency apartments.

Spearheaded by Walter S. McNeal, Jr., the Board yesterday refused a request for a 500 square foot variation per unit for Negro apartments on University Avenue, after McNeal served notice he would oppose any construction "which will breed slums of tomorrow."

McNeal, a large property owner in the Windsor-Rawson area, said he is confronted with the same problem faced by Mrs. Marie Scheuer, the petitioner for the variation, but added, "I am not going to ask any special concessions in this respect and I do not intend to vote them." He added he hopes to improve his holdings but plans to maintain a sound standard in doing so. He said "too many glorified slums have been built in Atlanta in the past two years, especially for Negro occupancy."

Mrs. Scheuer could have built 17 units on the tract, but asked through her attorney, Abe Fitterman, to construct 24. Under existing laws governing such construction, 1,875 square feet are required for each unit. If the variation had been allowed, it would have reduced the square footage to 1,375 square feet per unit.

Fitterman said 17 units could not be constructed on the property economically, that contractors had advised more units must be placed on the tract if a sound investment is provided. When the Board turned down his request for the 24 units, he asked for one additional, pushing to total to 18. The Commission took that under advisement. The units were to have been composed of a bedroom, kitchen and bath.

Approval was given to a petition by the Baptist Women's Missionary Union to relocate a center it now operates at 816 Pelham St., N. W., by moving to 153 Stovall St., S. W. A delegation told the Board a nursery and other facilities would be provided.

Late Surge of Buying Reduces Stocks' Losses

NEW YORK—(UP)—Television shares spurted to new highs to lead a last-hour rally on the stock market Friday. TV issues lured the novice and professional traders alike. Their strength soon imparted a better tone to the main list and all sections joined the recovery after several periods of decline had brought the market to new lows since Dec. 21.

Tickers fell behind the market late in the day with prices rising from the early lows. They had been late at the opening and at a secondary sell-off at mid-session.

Market experts explained that the demand represented orders under the market which were touched off when prices declined earlier in the day. They held that Thursday's and Friday's declines had resulted in an oversold list.

Attempts were made to put a finger on the cause of the previous session's break. Some held that a move to give the Federal Reserve Board power over the nation's credit policies was responsible. Others said fears of substantial increases in corporate taxes would be recommended by President Truman next week influenced selling.

International Telephone led the market in turnover and rose to a new high. Emerson Radio and Phonograph also reached a new top. Heavy trading and strength came into Admiral Corp. Radio Corp. strengthened to a small net gain.

Railroad issue, hard hit in the earlier selling, came back and several netted gains. Steels moved up from their lows. So did the motors. Some of the oils showed advances. Utilities held within a fraction of their previous close.

Trading for the session crossed the 3,000,000-share mark for the first time since Nov. 3, 1948.

Railroad issues made the best major group showing of the day. Nickel Plate soared 4½ points from its low to close at 104½, up 1⅞ points net. Union Pacific sold at 83 and rallied to close at 85¼, off ¾. Southern Pacific finished at 52, up 1, and Illinois Central 36¾, up ⅞.

In the television group, International Telephone closed at 12⅛, up 1½; Admiral Corp. 23½, up 1½; Emerson 19¾, up 1¾; and Radio Corp. 13⅜, up ⅜.

General Motors sold as low as 68¼ and closed at 70, off 1⅛. Chrysler rose 2⅜ from its low to finish at 64⅞, off ⅛; U. S. Steel closed at 26⅞, off ¼ from the previous close, and up 1⅛ from the day's low. Small gains were held by Schenley, Texas Co., Woolworth, General Foods, United Aircraft, Amerada, and Goodyear.

Several high-priced issues closed with wide declines. Allied Chemical was at 200½, off 3; International Business Machines 221⅛, off 3⅞; Coca-Cola 161, off 3; Lone Star Cement 76½, off 2⅜, and Superior Oil 204, off 6.

Utilities held to a fractional area and their average lost a small amount.

Sales mounted to 3,330,000 shares compared with 2,970,000 Thursday. Friday's volume was the best since May 14, 1948, when 3,840,000 shares changed hands.

Selling Wave Lowers Bonds

NEW YORK — (AP) — Sellers completely dominated activity in the market for railroad bonds Friday and losses ranged to more than 3 points.

By the beginning of the final trading hour, losses outnumbered gains by a ratio of better than 4 to 1.

Trading opened with a flood of sell orders that sent prices plunging. This was an extension of the big sell-off in the last hour Thursday that burst an upward trend by rail bonds in progress for the past six weeks.

Trading slackened in the late forenoon and many issues were able partially to recoup earlier losses.

Another slight sag occurred in the usually quiet lunch hour, however, when transactions totaled more than $1,500,000.

Over-the-counter trading in U. S. treasury bonds opened briskly and prices immediately dipped from 1-32 to 3-32 of a point. A partial recovery later in the session clipped most losses by 1-32 of a point.

Bond men unanimously attributed the break in rail prices to a concerted rush by investors and speculators to cash in on the profits accruing from the recent sustained rise in carrier loans.

Other factors caused the weakness in U. S. Treasury bonds. The federal reserve system announced Thursday it had sold $599,000,000 of government securities from its portfolio in the week ended Wednesday. This addition to the open market supply tended to cheapen prices.

Late Rally Offsets N. Y. Cotton Losses

NEW YORK — (AP) — Cotton futures were lower Friday under moderate pressure of commission house and trade selling, although declines were checked by aggressive buying for mill and export accounts. Another decline in securities created hesitancy in cotton, although the situation in cotton textiles continued strong, with some selling of print cloths reported as far ahead as the fourth quarter.

The New York Cotton Exchange service estimated December cotton consumption at 755,000 bales, against 772,000 in November and 676,000 in December a year ago.

Private Atlanta advices said that mill buying of spot cotton was still small, but Memphis said that sales there were large in the last few days for this time of the year.

CCC cotton loans so far this season were 2,487,012 bales, against 4,055,821 placed in the loan to the same date a year ago. For the latest week ended Jan. 5 loans were 103,653 bales, against 183,369 in the previous week.

Increased trade buying and short covering rallied cotton futures into new high ground for the day in late dealings.

Futures closed 45 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower than the previous close.

New Orleans Cotton Regains Early Losses

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Cotton futures declined here early Friday but in the late dealings rallied on trade buying to fixed prices and week-end short covering. Closing prices were steady, unchanged to 35 cents a bale higher.

Trading was fairly active and some of the demand resulted from continued favorable textile reports. The early easiness was attributed to long realizing and selling in sympathy with weakness in the stock market. Middling 15/16ths-inch spot cotton remained unchanged at 30.55 cents a pound. Local sales amounted to 3,065 bales.

COFFEE MARKET

Grains Suffer Minor Losses

CHICAGO — (AP) — Grains dipped for minor losses on the board of trade today in sympathy with a renewed break in stock prices at New York.

At one time prices sank a cent or more, but the market recovered partly from this slump. Selling never was very urgent, although trading volume picked up on a mid-day sell-off.

Great Britain was credited with buying a moderate amount of wheat late in the day. This helped to steady the bread cereal. Tallow and grease prices were advanced, which aided lard.

Movement of grain from farms again ran ahead of a week ago, particularly in oats. Oats receipts at major terminals today totaled 526,000 bushels against 176,000 a week ago.

Wheat closed ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, March $2.15⅜-½, corn was ⅛-¼ higher, March $1.29½, oats were unchanged to ¼ higher, March 73, rye was ½ lower to ½ higher, May $1.42, soybeans were ¼ to 1 cent higher, March $2.31½-¾, and lard was 8 cents lower to 5 cents a hundred pounds higher, January $10.55.

Map of Georgia Water Courses Would Look Like Huge Spider Web

By STILES A. MARTIN
Constitution State Editor

Rivers, creeks, ponds, lakes, springs and wells and water generally are so necessary to Farmers and Industry, that we are devoting this, the second article, to Water in Georgia.

Few States are blessed with such an abundance of water and so well distributed as Georgia. Streams run in every direction and a map of the State's water supply—rivers and creeks—resemble a huge spider web. The rivers are well scattered over the State, and each is fed by a number of creeks.

There are many unusual features about Georgia's water courses. Most of them have Indian names, such as Tallulah, Etowah, Coosa, Oostanaula, Ocmulgee, Towaliga, Ohoopee, Coosawattee, Suwannee, and scores of others.

There are many unusual features of the direction taken by some of the streams. You'll likely be surprised to know that the Tallulah River, closely identified with Tallulah Falls—long the Niagara for Georgia honeymooners—rises in North Carolina; flows southeast through a segment of Northeast Georgia and on its short course the Georgia Power Company has four lakes and power plants. This stream then flows into Tugaloo River, on which this firm has two more lakes and power plants.

Stiles Martin

Thus water that is impounded in the upper lake, Burton, passes through five more lakes and plants, creating power at each, then finds its way into the Savannah River.

No other stream, long or short, in the State is so active or useful. This river is also in a "hurry"—it drops 700 feet in two miles.

You will see from the above that much of the water that creates your light and power, falls in North Carolina. Also, water from both North and South Carolina turns the wheels of industry at Augusta and Savannah, and other points along the Savannah River.

The Savannah River is created by the Chattooga River, which has its source in North Carolina, and with the Tallulah and Tugaloo in Georgia and the Seneca River in South Carolina join to create the Savannah in east Hart County.

Atlantans walk every day over the source of two rivers. Source of South River is uptown, while the headwaters of Flint are in South Fulton, in the vicinity of Hapeville and College Park.

South River flows into the Atlantic Ocean, while Flint goes to the Gulf of Mexico. Water that finds its way into the Chattahoochee River, like Peachtree Creek, also goes to the Gulf.

Chattahoochee is the longest river in the State—400 miles—and supplies more water to more people than any other stream in the State, including Atlanta. It is also a sewage disposal stream for many points. In its great length, only two rivers enter the Chattahoochee and they are near its source—the Soque (formerly "Sookke"), and the Chestatee.

When you read that the Ohio and Mississippi rivers are "up" you might well remember that water falling in Georgia helped to swell these streams. Almost unbelievable isn't it that Georgia water goes as far north as Ohio. Several rivers in extreme North Georgia flow northward into the Tennessee River, thence into the Ohio River and then into the Mississippi. So, Georgia water "gets around."

Georgia streams are at various altitudes. In North Georgia some are approximately 3,000 feet high then flow to the ocean level.

Some rivers take freaky courses. The Ocmulgee flows southward, then turns northeast where it joins the Oconee near Hazlehurst to form the Altamaha, the largest river in the State with a volume flow of 12,380 cubic feet of water each second, and also drains the largest area of any stream in the State—13,600 square miles (U. S. Geological Survey).

Two rivers rise in the Okefenokee Swamp, the famed Suwannee and the St. Marys, which "rambles all around." The St. Marys first flows southward, then east, then north, then turns east and empties into the Atlantic Ocean.

The St. Marys forms much of the boundary line between Georgia and Florida in the southeast section of the State, the lake now being built in extreme southwest Georgia, the Woodruff Dam, will also include about 50 miles of the State line, which will run right through the lake, it is said.

The entire east boundary of the State is formed by rivers, the Chattooga, Tugaloo and the Savannah.

On the west, the Chattahoochee from West Point south, forms the boundary line between this State and Alabama.

While the general trend of Georgia rivers is southward, yet many run in other directions. The Broad and Little rivers extend east to the Savannah river; and while the Tallulah breaks through the mountains of northeast Georgia and extends south and east, practically all others north of the mountains run north, while the Tallapoosa, Etowah, Oostanuala, and the Connassauga and Coosawattee, which form the Oostanuala, extend south and then generally west; the Chattahoochee and Flint, southwestward. Those rivers originating in South Georgia flow southward into the Ocean.

The Ogeechee is the longest river in the State that maintains its name from source to its mouth. It is also famous for its shad fish.

Toccoa River on which is located the huge power lake, is NOT at Toccoa, Ga., but is miles west at Blue Ridge. You heard of the fisherman who drove from Atlanta to Toccoa, Ga., and inquired the way to "Lake Toccoa." He was informed that it was all the way across the State at Blue Ridge. The lake was first called "Lake Toccoa" and because of this confusion, was changed to "Blue Ridge."

In addition to all the inland streams, Georgia has a long stretch of Atlantic Ocean front, from Savannah Beach southwestward to St. Marys.

Not all of Georgia's water "runs away." Much is contained in lakes and springs, many of the latter being famous, such as Warm Springs, internationally famed for its curative power, which is restoring polio patients to improvement and better health; Radium Springs near Albany; Indian Springs in Butts County; Cave Spring, near Rome, and many others.

M. T. Thomson

Lakes dot the State, many private and many public, which afford recreation and fishing for Georgians.

A large series of lakes are maintained by the State Parks Department. They include:

Alex Stephens Park at Crawfordville, two, containing 32 acres; at high Amicalola Falls near Dawsonville, 10 acres; Fort Mountain, a 17-acre lake that is 2,850 feet high; Hard Labor, near Rutledge, two, one of 45 acres and another, 275 acres; Kolomoki, in Early County, 75 acres; Laura Walker at Waycross, 45 acres; Little Ocmulgee at McRae, 200 acres; Magnolia Springs at Millen, three lakes containing 60 acres all told; Franklin Roosevelt Park at Pine Mountain, two, Lake Franklin, 30 acres, and Delano, 15 acres.

The largest lake in the State Parks Department system is Lake Blackshear, near Cordele, which contains 8,000 acres. Others include Vogel Park, Lake Trahlyta. (We like Indian names but "Trahlyta" almost "gets" us.)

Other lakes not in the Parks' system include Lake Winfield Scott, near Dahlonega, in the Chattahoochee National Forest; Grand View Lake, near Jasper; the huge Clark's Hill project at Augusta; Allatoona Dam in Bartow County; Jackson Lake at the source of the Ocmulgee, and the series of lakes at Columbus; Lake Louise at Toccoa Falls, to say nothing of Okefenokee Swamp.

There are other large private lakes over the State, many being on the fringe of Georgia and Florida, and many lakes that afford power to operate grist mills.

Water is necessary to all life, but to the farmer it is most vital because he needs it to sprout the seed, to cause the food crops to grow to maturity to feed the world, while his livestock could not cultivate the crops without an ample supply of water, neither would the grass grow for his milk and beef cows.

So, the ample supply of water in Georgia invites farmers.

At the same time, industry cannot operate without an ample supply of water and to this end, the United States Geological Survey maintains approximately 100 flow gauging stations in rivers and large creeks over the State and is in position at any time to give information on the water contained in these streams. Chief Engineer of the Atlanta office in charge of this valuable research and information service is M. T. Thomson, whose office is busy compiling information on the Georgia water supply.

The Georgia Geological Department also is an authority on Georgia water and other geological matters.

We suggest you get "water" conscious and learn more about this great resource of the State and a concluding suggestion is that better and more markings should be placed on bridges that span Georgia streams, enabling identification of the rivers and creeks.

COCHRAN CHAMPION—Georgia's new corn-growing champion, C. L. Dunn, Bleckley County, produced 216 bushels of corn per acre on this field in 1949, and this is believed to be an all-time record for this State. Dunn is shown above in his fine crop.

NAMED STATE CHAMPIONS

Bleckley County Pair Breaks Corn Output Record Set in 1911

Constitution State News Service

COCHRAN—With a record yield of 216.4 bushels of corn per acre, C. L. Dunn and W. C. Oliver, of Bleckley County, have been named champion corn growers in the State for 1949.

Their yield tops the old State record made in 1911 by a Walker County corn club boy by almost two bushels and is more than 40 bushels greater than the 1947 winning yield produced by Grady Satterfield, of Union County.

In announcing the record-breaking yield made by these two men, E. D. Alexander, agronomist for the Agricultural Extension Service, said yesterday that average corn production for the State as a whole hit a new high this year, 18 bushels per acre. Last year's average production was 15½ bushels per acre.

Dunn and Oliver will be honored at a banquet later this year for all members of the State 100-Bushel Corn Club. Each year, growers who produce 100 or more bushels of corn per acre are invited to attend the banquet, where they are awarded silver keys and certificates of honor.

Oliver is a sharecropper on the Dunn farm, and the two men worked together with County Agent E. C. Attaway to produce the winning corn this year. In addition to irrigating the acres where the corn was grown, they followed recommended Extension Service methods of good soil selection, soil improvement, thorough soil preparation, use of adapted varieties and hybrids, heavy fertilization, thick spacing and rapid, early and shallow cultivation.

According to Alexander, these are the methods which are paying off in more corn today in Georgia on a million less acres than in 1940.

Upland soil was selected for the corn, and in February, 15 tons of manure per acre were broadcast. Then, the soil was disced and plowed to a good depth. It was harrowed twice more before planting and 1,000 pounds of 19 percent superphosphate and 800 pounds of 4-8-8 fertilizer broadcast per acre.

Dixie 17, a high-yielding hybrid, but not suitable for crib corn in South Georgia because of low weevil resistance, was used for the winning crop, and it was planted in 36-inch rows, eight inches in the row, after 900 pounds of 4-8-8 fertilizer has been applied in the row.

Georgian Gets Scholarship From Feed Firm

Bruce W. Hancock, graduate of the University of Georgia in Athens, has been presented a $1,000 scholarship by the Georgia Feed Association, Inc.

Bruce Hancock

The check was presented to Hancock by James B. Crew, secretary of the Feed Association.

This graduate scholarship is made available each year for further study in the field of poultry and dairying science, Crew explained.

As winner of the 1949-50 scholarship Hancock will do research work in the poultry field while he works on his Master Degree in science at the University of Georgia.

FARM QUESTIONS

By S. D. TRUITT
Fulton County Agent

1. Would you advise Fulton County farmers to plant their 1950 cotton acreage allotment?

Yes. If a farmer can possibly cultivate and harvest his cotton acreage I strongly recommend him planting his cotton acreage.

1st. If a farmer fails to plant his acreage he as well as the county may lose the allotment. 2nd. In all probability the farmer will need the money that his cotton will bring. 3rd. If a farmer fails to plant cotton—what will he use for a money crop?

2. What kind of land and how much fertilizer per acre do you recommend for cotton?

Plant your best cotton land in cotton. Use at least 600-800 lbs. of 6-8-6 fertilizer per acre at planting time, at second plowing side dress with 150 lbs. of nitrogen and 50 lbs. muriate of potash per acre. This should produce 1-1½ bales of cotton per acre.

3. How much lint cotton will a farmer have to produce per acre to make a fair return on his investment and labor?

At the present price of cotton, a farmer should produce at least 500 lbs. of lint per acre to bring him a fair return on his investment and labor.

4. Do you think Fulton County farmers should eventually give up planting cotton?

No. If a farmer has cotton acreage that will produce a bale of cotton per acre, I feel sure he should plant some cotton.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL, HE FINDS WAY

Grady Farmer Realizes Dairy Goal

By SAM CLARKE
Constitution Staff Writer

CAIRO—A Grady County farmer has realized a long-dreamed-of goal and proved the time-worn adage "where there's a will there's a way."

"I had no cattle, no barns, no pasture—nothing but the will to do—but I was determined to get into the dairy business," Edwin Paschal said yesterday.

And, with the aid and guidance of Ed Childers, his instructor in the Veterans Farm Training Program, the youthful veteran of World War II has made remarkable progress.

After serving in the Navy in the last war, Edwin took over the responsibility of his late father's farm near here where he lives with his wife, two children and his mother.

"Some folks thought I wouldn't make the grade," he chuckled, adding that, "there were many times when I thought the same thing."

The proof of Paschal's point on what a lot of intestinal fortitude, plus an equal amount of sweat, can do is now past history.

The farm trainee won first place in southeast Georgia and second place in the State in the Year-Round Grazing contest sponsored by the Georgia Power Company. He also received the Soil Conservation Banker's Award for carrying out 90 percent of his soil conservation practices.

"Pastures have been the salvation of my dairy enterprise," declared Paschal who in two years of VFTP work has established 25 acres of permanent and 23 of temporary pastures and now has 34 cows, having raised all except six of them himself. From the 18 cows he is now milking, the trainee gets 53 gallons of 4.9 percent butterfat milk each day.

He furnished grazing for 26 dairy cows and eight heifers with eight acres of coastal Bermuda, 3.6 acres of coastal Bermuda overseeded with crimson clover, five acres of sericea lespedeza, two acres of fescue overseeded with ladino clover, 1.7 acres of pangola grass and one acre of manganese and lapachi clover.

On his coastal Bermuda pasture, he applied 500 pounds of 4-8-6 fertilizer per acre and put two applications of nitrates at the rate of 300 pounds per acre during May and July. He had one four-acre patch of coastal Bermuda ready for heavy grazing just eight weeks after he had set it out.

Approximately 150 farmers have received their start of Bermuda grass from Paschal.

The Grady Farmer has built a milk barn, dairy barn, and a lounging barn for housing the cattle at night and in cold weather. He did all of the work himself, cutting the timber off his land.

"The barn is no show place," he says, "but was built strictly for service. I hope to have a nice dairy barn, but that will have to come later." He wholesales his milk to a local creamery.

In addition to his dairy enterprises, Edwin has a flock of 900 white leghorn layers for commercial egg production. The trainee gets 60 percent production. He has built six chicken houses and started in the chicken business with 300 head.

On his 75-acre farm, 57 of which is cleared land, he has 20 acres in corn and two acres in Spanish peanuts and has rented six additional acres. He is developing an orchards this year, having planted lemon, grape, apple, pear, and pecan trees. Farm machinery owned by the trainee includes a tractor, manure spreader, cultivator, mowing machine, and lime spreader.

Paschal says he hasn't spent a dime on himself in two years, but puts every cent back toward improving his pasture and heifers. "It takes money and I'm putting mine where I know it will do the most good in the future," he says.

Feed Grain Supplies Hit Near Record High

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that feed grain supplies are the second highest in history, topped by near-record stocks of 2.4 billion bushels of corn.

Farm stocks of corn, second largest on record, were only 147,000,000 bushels below the previous high of last year.

The Department reported that the 1949 near-record corn output resulted in substantial quantities available for feeding. Disappearance from farms of 1,416,000,000 bushels between October and December was the highest on record and 48,000,000 bushels above the comparable period a year ago.

Grain-eating animals on farms were reported by the Department to be about four percent more numerous than a year ago.

The Department said that deliveries of a substantial quantity of 1948 corn under Government loan also contributed to the grain picture.

Wheat stocks were estimated at 327,000,000 bushels, 16 percent less than the 391,000,000 bushels a year ago.

The Department said, meanwhile, that half of the nation's farms have joined the Government's soil and water conservation program.

There are roughly 5,800,000 farms in the U. S. About 2,900,000 of them have taken up Agriculture Department - sponsored soil and water conservation practices.

Approximately 598,000,000 acres of farm land, out of the total 1,142,000,000 acres of land on farms is managed by farmers who have joined the Government in its continuous efforts to take best advantage and care of resources essential to farming.

Government assistance for conservation during 1949 was administered through more than 3,000 agricultural counties by locally-elected farmer-committeemen.

Ralph S. Trigg, Production and Marketing Administrator, hailed the widespread interest in the program and its results. He said: "This Government assistance has helped to speed up the adoption on a wide front of the improved methods of conservation and soil improvements resulting from agricultural research."

At the same time, the Department reported farmers "in greater numbers than ever" are pressing to take up the conservation program in their local areas.

While American farmers take to the program, foreign nations are showing a great deal of interest and have sent representatives to America to study the plan and other extension activities.

Feed Prices

Feed prices are expected to average a little lower in the 1949-50 season than in the season of 1948-49, due to another record grain crop and lower loan rates on 1949 grain crops.

Rotenone Rids Cattle Of Heel Fly 'Wolves'

SATURDAY, JAN. 14, 1950

Suggestion of the day: Talk to the county agent, your vocational teacher or Soil Conservation Service man about getting your soil analyzed. Sample can be sent to the College of Agriculture at Athens or to the Experiment Station at Experiment, Ga. The mobile soil-testing unit may be coming your way soon and these men will know about it.

RUB OUT "RISINGS"

I notice a good many grubs have appeared on the backs of our cattle during the past 30 days. These are the "risings" that most farmers call "wolves." Others call them warbles. They are the swellings along the back of cattle which disclose upon examination a large capsule-like grub.

In the old days it was considered good practice to squeeze these grubs out through the skin, but this has bene found to be dangerous to the cattle. Nowadays most farmers use some form of rotenone and rub it briskly into the swelling with a brush. The idea is to get the rotenone into the openings of the skin through which the grubs get the air they must have to live. By getting the rotenone into the grub hole the grub is killed. This not only ends the grub's career, but reduces next year's crop of heel flies. The heel fly is the gent who produces the grub in the first place, so if we kill off the grubs we automatically kill off the heel flies to that extent. Most veterinarians recommend three applications of rotenone at intervals of 25 to 30 days.

This is the time of year also when internal parasites (worms) seem to do most damage to cattle. Many cattle on range have all they can do to make it through the Winter on the sparse feed supplied them and when the worms take a considerable portion of this feed the result is pretty drastic.

Cattle on dry feed can be given phenothiazine or "Trol" (a combination of pheonthiazine, copper-sulphate and nicotine-sulphate) in powder form in their feed, but the animals on range usually need individual dosing with capsules or oblets or pills or drenches. Many reliable pharmaceutical houses manufacture worm expellents and the farmer may take his choice. Your veterinarian can advise you.

Pests such as mentioned here take an awful toll of health, energy and life itself from the animals. Getting rid of parasites, both external and internal, is very important.

Why provide good feed for our animals if we allow parasites to use it up?

More Candidates Than Voters?

Some Georgia counties may find themselves in the uncomfortable position of having more candidates than voters in the elections next Summer.

That sounds like fantasy but it could be the literal truth. For in 20 counties no move has been made to begin reregistration under the year-old law. These counties will have local officers to elect, not to mention State officials. And if their apathy persists they could wind up without a single qualified voter to go to the polls.

Something has got to be done. And there are only two courses.

One is for Georgians to get busy and bring the voters' lists up to at least the 1,200,000 total of last year. The other is for the General Assembly, which convenes Monday, to repeal or delay effect of the law. Since Administration leaders, after swaying back and forth, now seem to have made up their minds there will be no delay, the second alternative is out.

There is nothing wrong with reregistration per se. In many States it is required periodically—as often as every two years in some.

The trouble in Georgia is that the political situation invited the charge the reregistration law was conceived in discrimination. It has not, in fact, worked out that way.

Talmadge leaders have confused the situation by publicly talking of a delay. Many counties were lulled into a false sense of security by these statements. And that is understandable. Why spend money for reregistration if the law was going to be repealed or postponed?

But, unless Administration leaders have changed their minds again—and that would be the happiest way out of the confusion—the old voters' lists will be discarded about May 1.

It's time Georgians got busy.

Georgia's Hybrid Corn King

Congratulations to Lawrence Timms, of Gordon County, Georgia's 4-H Club hybrid corn king.

Young Timms won the State's second annual hybrid corn contest with 160 bushels to the acre. Using Dixie 17 hybrid with plenty of fertilizer, he grew 21,780 stalks per acre at a production cost of 66 cents a bushel. There's profit in that.

Time after time, contest after contest, hybrid corn is proving its worth in Georgia.

The planting season is not far off.

Profit-minded farmers know that buying hybrid seed is an investment that really pays off on the stalk market.

A Note to Parents

Coffee County has had four cases of diphtheria within the last five weeks, the Douglas Enterprise reports.

The last victim, a little girl, was rushed to the Waycross Hospital in a critical condition, able to breathe only through use of a tube in the throat.

News of diphtheria cases in Coffee County or anywhere else these days is distressing because these cases need never arise.

Preventive shots are available free of charge through county health departments or at a nominal cost from the family physician.

Parents who care for their children will not put off seeing that they are protected against diphtheria and other preventable diseases.

Making Tax Dollars Go Farther

Four more school districts in Cobb County agreed last week to join in a program leading to one central high school. Other districts in the county had already indicated last Fall their willingness to cooperate toward fewer and better schools through the consolidation process.

"Be thrifty in '50" is a slogan that is catching on in this, the first year of the second half of the century.

School boards will be making tax dollars for education go farther when they sacrifice local pride and work toward combining schools into larger units.

It's good to see that the school consolidation ball is still rolling in the new year. May it gain more and more momentum as it rolls.

A Mixture That Doesn't Pay

Mixture of alcohol and a little plain water with gasoline in the carburetor of an automobile makes for a more economical fuel.

That's what an Agriculture Department expert told the American Society of Agricultural Engineers the other day.

It may be that the mixture of alcohol and plain water in the carburetor means cheaper fuel.

But the fact remains that the same combination in the driver is definitely is neither an economical nor a sensible proposition.

JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

First Test of Our New Policy in Asia

WASHINGTON—By courtesy of Mao Tse-tung and the French Government, the energy and seriousness of the new American policy in Asia will almost immediately be subjected to its first test. The test will come in Indo-China, which is, with Burma, one of the two keys to the rich, populous and strategically vital Southeast Asiatic peninsula.

In brief, the French Government has for some time been urging our Government to give aid and comfort to the non-Communist elements in their former colony, which is still part of the French union.

The detailed position can be simply described. Full Chinese Communist occupation of the border provinces of Yunnan, Kwangsi and Kwangtung should occur within a month to six weeks at most. No one expects Mao Tse-tung to send his armies into Indo-China. But the mere presence of Mao's armies in the border provinces will afford a supreme opportunity to the Indo-Chinese Communist leader, Ho Chi Minh.

Hitherto, when Ho Chi Minh wanted supplies or arms for his powerful guerrilla movement, he has had to buy them through underground agents in China proper or Hong Kong or the Philippines. Similarly, his only refuges have been Indo-China's jungles and mountains. Now, however, when Ho Chi Minh's guerrillas want material help or temporary refuge, they will only have to cross the border to their Chinese comrades.

The French Government has therefore asked the State Department to counterbalance Ho Chi Minh's new advantage, by helping to build up the strength and prestige of Ho Chi Minh's rival for power, the Emperor Bao Dai.

This descendant of the old rulers of Annam is a symbol of the belated French realization of the tremendous force of Asiatic nationalism. Some time ago, after innumerable follies in Indo-China, the French decided that they could not defeat Ho Chi Minh while he monopolized the appeal to native patriotism. Paris therefore recognized Indo-China's independence within the French Union, and established a new Indo-Chinese government under Bao Dai. Bao Dai's primary function was, and is, to draw away the native non-Communist patriots who constitute the rank and file of Ho Chi Minh's movement.

The experiment began unfortunately, and the State Department was initially skeptical of its success. More recently, however, the prospects have improved. Bao Dai has shown courage and the ability to attract followers. A native army of 90,000 is being recruited, trained and armed by his government with French help. French High Commissioner Pignon has handled the political problem astutely, and the excellent French army in Indo-China, under Gen. Charpentier, has made good progress against Ho Chi Chi's guerrillas.

In these circumstances, the French Government is asking this country to extend full recognition to Bao Dai, open diplomatic relations with him, and offer him aid.

The time for American action will come almost at once, when the French Assembly formally ratifies the independence of the Bao Dai regime. By being bold and firm, we can accomplish two great results. We can, in effect, assure the Indo-Chinese people that Bao Dai is truly independent, and no mere French puppet. And we can simultaneously greatly increase Bao Dai's prestige. According to informed observers, if these results can be accomplished soon enough to forestall Ho Chi Minh's full gain from the Communist victory in China, the effect will be very great indeed.

Within the State Department, it must be added, there is still a tendency to temporize. Those who dislike a full commitment to Bao Dai have urged extending de facto recognition instead of full recognition, deferring establishing a legation in Indo-China, and otherwise using half-measures. Fortunately, however, this temporizing tendency seems, for the moment, to be outweighed by the realization of the gravity of the Far Eastern crisis. If we now act decisively on this Indo-Chinese problem, as seems most probable, the constructive American policy in Asia will be well inaugurated.

RALPH McGILL

Speaker Hand On Tax Revision

Ralph McGill is on vacation. During his absence prominent Georgians will contribute guest columns in this space. Today's is by Rep. Fred Hand, of Pelham, Speaker of the House of Representatives and a member of the Tax Revision Commission.

Georgia, having few natural assets and being rich only in the quality of its people, has a tremendous and delicate problem of how to secure the better things of life for its citizens.

To raise her $971 per capita income, Georgia must raise the educational standard of all her people so that they will be capable of earning more money. To do this will require an ever increasing amount of money. When I say ever increasing amount of money, I say so advisedly. I cannot forget that the first year I came to the General Assembly in 1931, the appropriation for the common schools was only $4,696,250, while now the appropriation is $50,700,000. No one now would want our schools to go back to the conditions that existed in 1931, and it would be surprising in 1970 if anyone wanted their schools to go back to the 1949 conditions.

Although contrary to the belief of some, the quantity and quality of education recevied does not necessarily coincide with the amount of money spent on education; however, everyone recognizes the fact that we cannot have a good educational system without adequate finances. As civilization progresses and becomes more and more complex, it has always required more and better education to successfully compete with its problems.

Problem With Georgia's per capita income $971, and the cost of maintaining all the various departments of Government constantly rising, her problem is how to get enough money to educate all of its people so that their increased knowledge and ability will produce more taxable income and taxable property with which to support its Government in the demands made by its people. Many have advocated a sales tax to answer this cry for more money, which to the upper income tax group, the Chamber of Commerce group, the Manufacturers' Association, the Bankers' Association, the soft drink owners, the large land owners, and like groups, would be an ideal answer, and would immediately remove any fear they might have of some increased tax being placed on their particular businesses. While this would be very pleasing to these groups, and would make the man sponsoring such a move quite popular with them, it must be remembered that a 3 percent sales tax would remove $18 from the pocket of the average man in the State of Georgia.

Certainly I recognize the fact that the average Georgian gets free school books, free education, free police protection, paved roads, and many other services, but on the other hand, $18 is approximately one week's income for the average man in Georgia. No man with a $971 income should have a tax of $18 levied on him until his State Government has practiced every possible economy, and until every possible source of revenue from those more able to pay has been explored.

Hodge-Podge? Recently those in favor of a sales tax have referred to our present tax system as an archaic and hodge-podge system. Much to the surprise of a group recently studying the tax system, of other Southern States, they found that our tax system, while far from perfect, was also far from the decrepit, worn-out system that it has been pictured. One learned and respected authority on taxation pointed out that it would be relatively simple to change Georgia's hodge-podge, archaic system into a modern system such as North Carolina's, by simply adding to the Georgia tax system a sleeping car tax, a utility tax; by raising the income tax and lowering the exemptions; and by adding a retail sales tax. It seems that many have become accustomed to judging how modern a tax system is by the amount of money it raises.

Sales Tax While it is freely admitted that I have never favored a sales tax because I have always felt that it bears down heaviest on those least able to pay, I believe that we are fast reaching the point in our taxation where the limited number of wealthy and limited number of corporations cannot pay for all the services that are being required of our Government. It is my intention to continue to oppose a sales tax until all other means of raising the necessary money have been exhausted, and until I feel the necessity for levying such a tax will justify lowering a $971 per capita income to $953. When and if this day does come, and I can conscientiously support a sales tax, I do hope my friends who own large tracts of land, the bankers, the soft drink group, the manufacturers, and others will understand.

JOHN WHEELER

Lady Outsmarts Gambler

One of the old-time glamour joints and sucker traps on the Gold Coast at Palm Beach disappeared a few years ago when Colonel Bradley died. It was so stylish you had to have on evening clothes to lose your dough, and everything was done on a high-class scale to make it as painless as possible, but you paid in the end just like in any other gambling house.

To show how strict the management was, one night Grantland Rice and I arrived, both in dinner coats, but my friend had forgotten to change his shoes and had shown up wearing a pair of the white sports type. We were stopped at the door and admittance refused until Mr. Rice could get a pair to go with the rest of his costume. However, as a concession and to avoid losing a sucker, some of the spare croupiers, who were on the bench for the moment, offered to lend him black oxfords so he would pass muster. He finally found some to fit after trying on several. It turned out those shoes cost him a little more than $300 before he gave them back to their owner, and left.

Sucker In this high-class atmosphere a young man in a Tuxedo was gambling and losing heavily at roulette one night several years ago while at his elbow watching him stood a pretty young woman, also in evening clothes. She looked sad but made no comment as the money went down the drain. Finally at 4 o'clock in the morning, he paid up the $2,500 he had lost and departed with a dejected air.

About noon the next day, the young woman arrived and asked to see Colonel Bradley. She was shown into his private office, weeping.

"Colonel Bradley," she said, "I am sorry to do this, but my husband and I are here on our honeymoon, and the $2,500 he lost last night is all we have in the world. We expected to use it to start out in life. I don't know what we are going to do, and he is threatening to shoot himself because he thinks he let me down."

The old man was an unusual character for a gambler, and he was touched by the girl's story. He thought a minute and then rang for his cashier.

"Get me twenty-five hundred," he told him.

When the man returned with the money, Colonel Bradley handed it to her with this admonition.

"Young lady, take it and go your way. See that your husband keeps out of gambling houses until he can afford to lose and don't either of you ever come back here."

"Oh, thank you, sir," she said smiling through her sobs. "You have saved our lives." She put the cash in her purse and departed.

Return That evening the young man showed up again in a Tuxedo and asked to buy some chips. Colonel Bradley spotted him and invited him into his office.

"Son," he began, "your bride was here today and told me about your honeymoon and said you were getting ready to blow your brains out on account of your losses. I paid her back. Now get out and don't ever come here again."

Somewhat surprised the youth replied,

"And now I want to tell you something, Colonel Bradley. I am not married, I have plenty of money, I was here alone last night, and I am staying at the Breakers Hotel where you can check my record."

The old Colonel was startled. It was his turn to be.

"Woman bites gambler," he muttered, as he okayed his visitor.

The latter had a lucky evening and won back his $2,500 and $500 besides. At least, that is the way I heard the story.

ALTAR STAIRS By John Marvin Rast

The Quakers hold what they call "queries." They are designed to confront the participants with analysis of soul which will lead to constructive action.

Such procedure is in line with the Master's method of teaching.

Approving those who accepted the faith as He proclaimed it, He gave them no ground for self-content.

Evermore He probed at their hearts, spurring them to new goals.

It is only as we yield our spirits to His inquiries that we can hope to know Him in all His beauty and declare Him in all His offices of prophet, priest, and king.

"So just as you once accepted the Christ, Jesus, as your Lord, you must live in vital union with Him." (Colossians 2:6, Goodspeed).

JACK TARVER

South Georgia Is in the Fescue

THOMASVILLE—The returning prodigal, away from South Georgia too long, is impressed with the atmosphere of prosperity and confidence which the place radiates.

Where once the embittered share-cropper stood, eking out the proverbial meager existence on overly furrowed land, sleek cattle graze contentedly. No longer do they roam the roads or glean the shoulders as did their bony-backed predecessors. Farmers take no chances with their livestock these days, not with beef bringing up to $25 a hundredweight on the hoof and year-round pastures theirs for the development.

In the small settlements along the highway, where once the sagging shutters of boarded-up stores testified to the poverty of the countryside, things are lively again. Not only do numerous livestock markets channel well over $100,000 apiece into their respective communities each weekly sales day, but countless small industries also contribute a newfound affluence and sense of security with their regular weekly pay rolls.

Proud and shiny, in the front yards of farm houses freshly painted, stand late-model automobiles, a far cry from the jalopies and Hoover carts of a few brief years ago. And in the towns the merchants, intent upon a new glass front, vie for carpenters with contractors who are building $18,000 and $20,000 houses in newly laid-out subdivisions in the pine thicket back of the old fairgrounds.

In Griffin, Thomaston and Americus the story is the same. Likewise in Camilla, Pelham and Cairo. Albany, of course, has always been full of vitamins and vinegar. And as for Thomasville, its 20,000 population has more than $9,000,000 in its two banks, the State's second largest farmers' market and, in case you're worried about any shortage of ham sandwiches, a huge meat packing plant and a bakery with a capacity of 100,000 loaves of bread a day.

Incidentally, I came here to talk to the Chamber of Commerce.

This reads as if they'd been talking to me.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned. Address all letters to Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Way to Progress

Editor Constitution: Being delighted with the report of the special commission, which has been making a study of the local government problems, I hasten to express my thanks, appreciation and hope for a speedy acceptance. If we had executed such a report 30 years ago, Atlanta would now be far in the lead as the metropolis of the South.

There seems to be one fly in the ointment—a hint of the continuation of the special privilege election which disfranchises the city and most of the county and thus keeps the destiny of the city in the hands of a few, led by self-seeking political bosses. Yet the city is more concerned and more affected by the results than all adjacent territory and cities combined, but politicians ignore the city and work for their own advantage.

In this election we should go back to the fundamental justice of Jefferson's day and allow every qualified voter living in the proposed new city (with two new wards) to vote for or against progress. Before the era of the political boss there were only four kinds of elections: city, county, state and national. The idea of dividing any of these units in an election was based on the scheme of special privilege for some and boss rule for others.

These two new wards can justly vote with the whole county or the city. They should have belonged to one or the other 30 years ago, instead of getting special privileges from both, thus causing duplication, extra expenses, etc. My neighbor, George W. Threlkeld, has been advocating similar proposals as the commission's and the ideas here suggested for years, so that most of us are now for them. He thinks that when we get the new city operating successfully all surrounding towns will be glad to join us with less and less hesitancy and delay.

Atlanta. G. L. KELL.

Milledgeville

Editor Constitution: Although no longer connected with the State Hospital, I wish to express my grateful appreciation to The Constitution for publishing, sometime past, my appeal for higher standards at Milledgeville.

Surely the maintenance of the second-largest mental institution in the world is, in large measure, responsible for Georgia's ranking second to the bottom of the 48 States and the hue and cry raised continually about our public schools illy covers this deplorable fact.

However, I gratefully grant that some of the counties are genuinely interested in the welfare of Georgia's "so-called" totally insane and feeble-minded.

Also an orchid to Georgia's clubwomen. Our Georgia women always recognize a need and our Georgia men support them.

In the forthcoming session of the Legislature may Georgia's old Lunacy Law be amended to fit in with the year 1950, rather than 1850, and with the first two commandments, "Love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart," and "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

Atlanta. EDNA GOBEY.

Headlines

Editor Constitution: Being in the hotel business, I am greeted by many from almost every State in the Union with the question, "How many governors does your State have?" They also wonder if there will be another duel to claim the Governor's chair after this year's election. My answer is, we will have to wait and see. Then they come right back and tell me Georgia's papers indicate another scramble for the chair of Governor is in prospect.

The next question is about all the holdups, floggings and kidnapings along with the many murders and robberies that are happening in Atlanta. I ask if they don't have these lawless actions in their states and cities and they say maybe so, but our newspapers don't advertise it. And I gather from these inquiries that the Atlanta dailies could make a fine contribution in at least drawing the headlines into smaller print.

I suggest that you give your readers news that Georgia is a sales tax free state which the out-of-state people would relish. The best platform any governor could run on and to stand on after the victory would be strictly anti-sales tax.

Blakely. MACK STRICKLAND.

Sales Tax

Editor Constitution: There is a lot of talk right now about a sales tax for Georgia. Taxpayers know that some kind of special taxes are bound to come, and a sales tax may be the answer, but the taxpayers would like a little consideration for themselves first. Before a sales tax is offered, a lot of "special taxes" should be repealed, among these the cigarette tax. Let the people buy their cigarettes free of State taxes. They will pay a sales tax on them, anyway. And why not take a few cents off the gasoline tax? Let Georgia people ride to and from the markets at which they trade at less expense. We would have to pay a sales tax on gasoline, too. Remove the tax on us pay the sales tax on everything we buy at all items which would be double-taxed and let retail. The sales tax is working out in other States and would bring in a lot of money in a big State like Georgia. Our neighbor, Tennessee, seems to have good tax laws.

St. Simon Island. C. V. LAY.

Consumer Pays

Editor Constitution: Want to beg pardon and plead guilty to being old-fashioned and out of date when during the Summer I sent you an article relating that someone had figured that the consumer paid about a baker's dozen taxes when he bought a loaf of bread.

Now comes the Tax Foundation with the declaration that the manufacturer of the loaf pays 151 taxes on it before it goes to the retail man, which if true the consumer must pay at least 200 taxes.

But I protest that the consumer pays all the taxes and the manufacturer and business man get credit for it. Of course the manufacturer and business man pay taxes on just so much as they consume, otherwise they would not stay in business long.

Yet there are some that claim that others pay no taxes at all.

I will admit, too, that the puny tax report I referred to was compiled some years ago, before the New-Fare Deals added so vast an amount of sales taxes to everything consumable and hid them from the public by collecting them through the manufacturer and business man and claiming he paid them. Thus they are called "hidden taxes." I still say all the consumers pay all the taxes. J. GORDON SIMPSON.

His View, Too

Editor Constitution: In your "letters" section of Jan. 7 edition I particularly liked the opening paragraph of the letter from Vester M. Ownby: "The United States, greatest nation on earth, was not built on security, economic, physical, or social. The wealth that today sustains the world was not produced by a thirty-five hour week, crop control, price subsidy, social security, or pension plan," etc.

My views to a "T." Let us have more of the same. N. G. SHEROUSE.

Murphy Defeats Bass On Last-Minute Goal

By JESSE OUTLAR

Colvin Heist's last-minute field goal gave the fast-breaking Murphy Eagles a 45-43 victory over Bass last night in a City League game which kept a capacity Grady gym crowd on its toes until the final whistle.

It was appropriate that Heist, a deadeye forward, should provide the finishing punch which handed Bass its first league setback, for he connected for 22 points and kept Murphy in the ball game when the Eagles were on the verge of being routed in the early stages.

The victory was the second in a row for A. W. Patton's Eagles who are eyeing their third straight City championship. Bass previously had beaten Smith and O'Keefe.

Bass, with Sonny Scott and Jim Ransbotham setting the pace, jumped into a 14-6 lead in the first seven minutes and that was the widest margin either team held in the game. But Heist dropped in three layup shots as the second quarter got under way and before Bass left the court with a 25-24 halftime lead, the lead had changed hands six times, with the score being deadlocked on five occasions.

Jack Turner, towering Bass center, hit for two field goals as the third quarter opened and the Blue Wave was on top until Bill Greer knotted the count at 40-all with three minutes remaining.

Turner swiashed in a free throw and Murphy's Perry Davis followed with a two-pointer to give the Eagles a one point edge. Joe Willingham sank a foul shot, but Don Fuller, of Bass, was true on a shot from field and it was 43-43 as the final minute started. That's when Heist stormed in to plant his winning two points in the basket.

Sonny Scott led the Bass attack with 11 markers, two more than teammate Graham Bell who fouled out with four minutes remaining.

Murphy Bees won a 42 to 35 victory in a preliminary game.

O'Keefe Wins; Grady Beaten By Columbus

By ELLWOOD MOYER
Special to The Constitution

COLUMBUS—Atlanta and Columbus High School basketball teams broke even here last night, Columbus trimming Grady, 50-27, on the Jordan court, and O'Keefe copping a nip-and-tucker from Baker Village, 36-31, on the Baker court.

Freddie Carey threw in four field goals to give O'Keefe its margin after the count was knotted, 22-22, at the end of the third period. Baker drew even at 26-26 but was behind after that as Carey, who was high with 16 points, found the range.

Tommy Farner, with 11 counters, was top man for Baker.

Gary Kelly, formerly of Atlanta Boys' High, dunked in 12 points, and Joe Hall hit for 10 in Columbus' one-sided win. Jack Spence managed 10 for Grady.

Baker will meet Grady tonight, with Columbus taking on O'Keefe.

Snead Shoots 69, Leads in Crosby Meet

By RUSS NEWLAND

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal. — (AP) — Bantam Ben Hogan and his golfing comeback ran into a temporary road block yesterday in the first round of the Bing Crosby $10,000 Invitational Tournament.

The little gamester, back on the tournament trail after 11 months recovering from an auto accident, found nothing but trouble in the closing holes of his first round over the Cypress Point course. He tacked up a five-over-par 77 after a provoking session that saw him three-putt two greens and twice visit the ocean beaches to cost himself extra strokes.

While Hogan's game was being wrecked on the rocks and stubborn greens, his arch rival, Sam Snead, breezed home at the tail end of the day to go into the tournament lead.

Snead tapped in a 15-footer for a birdie three on the eighteenth and posted a three-under-par 69. He was out in 36 and home in 33 for the best score of the day.

The late finish enabled Snead to snatch the lead from stocky Newt Bassler, Carmel, whose 36-34—70 had kept him in front of the field for much of the day.

Hogan, winner of the professional end of Crosby's Tournament a year ago, thus got off to a miserable start. He was one of the co-favorites.

The 54-hole event is played on three courses. Today's second round will take place on the Monterey Peninsula layout. The final round Sunday will be over the championship Pebble Beach course.

In addition to taking the individual lead among the professionals, Snead paired up with Roger Kelly of Los Angeles to set the pace in the pro-amateur best ball division. Snead and Kelly, a former California State amateur champion, had a combined best ball score of 34-31—65.

Only three pros had the shots to break par yesterday. Besides Snead and Bassler, lanky Dave Douglas, of Wilmington, Del., racked up a sub-standard count, a 36-35—71.

Three More Code Violators Named

NEW YORK—(AP)—The South's sanity code rebels girded for today's showdown in quiet, private caucuses today while learning three Eastern institutions probably will line up with them in their fight against the NCAA.

Boston College, Villanova and Maryland were reported to be the other three teams on a list of seven scheduled to face the wrath of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in its windup meeting.

The other four recommended for expulsion because of admitted violations of the sanity code have been known for weeks. They are The Citadel, Virginia, Virginia Tech and Virginia Military Institute.

The matter is to be brought before the convention today with a two-thirds vote of those present needed to expel.

Boston College's Athletic Director John P. Curley, admitted yesterday morning his school was one of those on the griddle. Boston informed the NCAA, as did the others, it could not conform with the new code relating to athletic subsidies.

Villanova had made no official statement but Coach Jim Leonard said, "Sure, we make no pretense. We are paying the tuition and board of some of our athletes."

Maryland's militant President, Dr. H. C. Byrd, is a long-time advocate of athletic scholarships under University administration. He appeared before the NCAA Council Thursday, along with representatives of the well-known "sinners."

The NCAA has steadfastly refused to name any of the schools it is attempting to discipline.

The Citadel, the West Point of the South, already has withdrawn from the national body with a sharp blast against the NCAA's tactics in enforcing the code.

The NCAA, however, has not received a formal resignation, according to Executive Assistant Walt Byers. The Citadel merely notified the organization it has quit paying dues, Byers said. A school must miss two years' dues before falling from grace.

The next to last day of the convention was otherwise on the mild side with these main developments:

Dr. Karl Leib, President of the NCAA and father of the sanity code, warned that today's session would be "the most important in the history of college athletics."

L. R. (Dutch) Meyer of Texas Christian sharply criticized bowl games as responsible for the instability in the coaching profession and for proselyting of athletes.

Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf, snow-haired coach of the University of California, was named president of the American Football Coaches Association to succeed Meyer.

Newly organized committees of the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conference met to discuss renewal of the Rose Bowl football series pact which expires after next year. Victor O. Schmidt, PCC commissioner, said no definite action was taken.

The two leagues may sign a long-time contract this year, possibly for 10 years. Kenneth (Tug) Wilson, commissioner of the Big Ten, favors such an arrangement.

The large television panel accepted a recommendation of the Eastern College Athletic Conference that an active television committee be appointed immediately by the NCAA. This committee would make a thorough investigation on the impact of television on college athletics.

NCAA Pres. Leib warned that today's meeting would decide the future of the organization.

"We will decide if we're going to have effective administration of sports or if we're going to lower the oars and let the sky be the limit," he declared.

"There is no halfway position. If we take the latter course I predict we will have a chaos in college athletics such as we have never seen before."

Meyer, also addressing the body as outgoing president of the coaches, criticized post-season games, saying: "It's getting so if a coach can't go to a bowl the alumni howls and wants his scalp."

He said he favored a rounded athletic program not emphasizing one sport such as football. He also put in a plug for open athletic scholarships, a program sought by the resurgent Southerners.

The Dixie crowd, meanwhile, was not making much noise but was doing a lot of button-hole campaigning for today's battle.

"A lot of independents are coming over to our side," said T. P. (Red) Heard, athletic director at Louisiana State University. "They have started thinking for themselves instead of following the leader."

The Southeastern, Southern and Southwest Conference decided, member-by-member, Thursday to go down the line all the way with the prospective "black-listed" members.

"I figure if we can get 80 votes and that will make it an impasse," Heard predicted.

Bernie Moore, Southeastern Conference Commission, said he felt sure half the delegates would vote against expulsion of anybody.

There are some 300 possible votes. The NCAA figures about 240 will be on hand today. Every member school and every conference has a vote.

The Citadel announced through Col. D. S. McAlister it would continue its athletic schedule as if nothing had happened and remain in the Southern Conference.

"If we are brought to the floor of the convention today we will never rejoin the NCAA regardless of what they do about the sanity code," McAlister warned.

Brownie Doone Captures All-Age at Waynesboro

By BERT PRATHER
Constitution Sports Writer

WAYNESBORO—Gerald M. Livingston's Shore's Brownie Doone, a big-running and stylish white and liver pointer who bested a fine field to take the 1949 Continental championship at Quitman, added another major win to his collection here yesterday when he was declared winner of first money in the fifty-first annual Georgia Field Trial Association's Open All-Age Stake over a field of 36 of the country's leading pointers and setters.

George Evans, Quitman trainer of the Livingston string, handled Brownie to his championship here and pocketed the $500 first money.

Brownie was the only dog in the stake to put up two covey finds and turned in what Judges Dewitt Sinclair, of Raiford, Fla., and J. E. Milhorn, of Johnson City, Tenn., thought was the best race among the bird finders.

The Livingston entry's next start will be in defense of his Continental championship next week at Livingston's Dixie plantation, near Quitman.

Second money in the big stake here went to Satilla Sam, owned by Lester Varn, of Jacksonville, Fla., and handled by Bill Etchells, of Leesburg, Ga.

Third money stayed right here in Waynesboro, when Claussen's Satchel Boy, a white and lemon ticked pointer, owned by Euclid Claussen, of Augusta, and handled by Fred Bevan, whose training grounds is near by, got the show check for $200.

A heavy fog which hung over the trial grounds stymied all efforts to complete yesterday's three braces until afternoon.

The fog not only delayed the Open All-Age finish but the start of the Open Derby as well. The Derby was to have been completed with Earl Crangle's Haylift and Joe McCall's Miss Durene as the competitors. The final three braces will be run off this morning.

As is always the case at Waynesboro, the trials were pronounced a complete success. Though the field has been larger in the past and birds have been more plentiful, the stakes all packed plenty of class.

Sammy Baugh Turns Down Baylor Post

ROTAN, Texas — (AP) — Sammy Baugh said yesterday he was going to continue to play professional football with the Washington Redskins and that he is no longer interested in becoming head coach at Baylor University.

"It would be a good job and be very nice," he said, "but I believe I should stay with Washington."

Baugh telephoned Dr. W. R. White, president of Baylor, and told him of his decision. Earlier he had talked with George Marshall, owner of the Washington Club of the National-American Professional Football League.

"I respect Baugh's attitude in the matter, but we are right where we started on the coaching problem," Dr. White said at Waco, Texas.

Baugh had been generally conceded top choice for the job vacated last week by Bob Wopdruff, who resigned the $12,000-a-year post to take a $17,000-a-year job as athletic director and head football coach at the University of Florida.

"I want to know that I appreciate the help given me by all connected with Baylor University who boosted me for the job," Baugh said.

"I sincerely appreciate their efforts and want to thank all of them," Baugh said.

ROME IS IN

Georgia-Alabama Set; Newnan To Field Club

By JACK JACKSON

The Georgia-Alabama Class D baseball league was set with a full field for the 1950 season yesterday when Sheriff Lamar Potts, President of the Newnan club, announced that his Browns would retain their franchise.

Newnan's decision to remain in the league means that Rome, under the Presidency of Jack Cole, will round out the field replacing Tallassee, Ala., which surrendered its franchise at the loop's LaGrange meeting last Sunday.

Potts had told the League's Directors at that meeting that Newnan was a doubtful starter, both because of a lack of finances and a lack of front office help. But Thursday night, at a meeting of fans and Directors of the Newnan Club, both situations were remedied. Potts was authorized to obtain a full-time business manager for the club, and $8,000 was raised to aid the team during the coming season.

For the past four years, Potts had alone carried on the front office business of the Browns. He felt that it required more time than he could devote to it, and for that reason, was doubtful about starting another season. Newnan finished fourth in 1946 and 1947, third in 1948 and won the pennant after leading a greater part of the season last year.

Rome, which has been seeking organized ball for several years, was granted Tallassee's franchise last Sunday on the provision that Newnan enter the league. At that time, Potts was given until tomorrow to notify the league that he would enter.

Bob Schmidt, who guided the Browns to a pennant last year, is the property of Newnan and will return as player-manager. The club hasn't as yet mailed any contracts, but has several men on its reserve list.

Rome will be managed by Norman Veazey, former Newnan pilot.

The other six entries—like Newnan—are holdovers from 1949. They are Alexander City, Opelika, Valley, Carrollton, Griffin and LaGrange.

Grimm Signs 3-Year Pact With Dallas

DALLAS — (AP) — Charlie (Jolly Cholly) Grimm set his baseball stakes in Texas yesterday at the fabulous salary of $30,000 a year as manager of a minor league club.

The former pilot of the Chicago Cubs, who said he was "tired of doing nothing" in a swivel-chair job and wanted the hustle and bustle of the coaching lanes once more, signed a three-year contract as headman of the Dallas club of the Class AA Texas League.

Grimm resigned as vice president of the Cubs, where he was drawing $25,000 a year, to come here. Owner Dick Burnett, of Dallas, said the $30,000 salary was the highest ever paid a manager in the minors. "Others have made more than that counting their cut of gate receiuts but this is the first straight $30,000 salary ever paid in minor league history," Burnett declared.

Unpredictable Charlie, who Burnett said would "more than earn his salary with the crowds he'll draw on the road," went against baseball tradition the first crack out of the box. He wouldn't predict a pennant for Dallas.

"I don't go out on any limb," he grimaced. "I just play 'em as we go along."

Ex-Cub Star, Stan Hack, Named Manager of New Springfield Club

Condensed from AP, UP, INS Wire Reports

Stan Hack, former star Chicago Cub third baseman, was handed a managerial berth yesterday just one notch below the major leagues after only two years of field boss experience.

The Cubs named the 39-year-old Hack to pilot their Spring, Mass., club in the Triple A International League next season. Springfield replaces Newark, a former Yankee farm, in the league.

Hack managed the Cubs' Des Moines team in the Class A Western League for the past two seasons, producing a pennant winner in 1948 and a fourth-place finisher last year.

MARION TO COACH—Marty Marion will serve the St. Louis Cardinals as an infield coach as well as a shortstop this year. WALKER HONORED — Doak Walker, SMU's three-time All-America, will be presented the Swede Nelson award for outstanding sportsmanship during the 1949 intercollegiate football seasin at the Gridiron Club's annual dinner in Boston today. He was selected by a 95-man National Committee that included coaches, sports writers and radio sportscasters. Walker received 49 votes and the remainder of the ballots were distributed among 14 other 1949 gridiron heroes.

WALDORF ELECTED — Pappy Waldorf, of California, has been elected president of the American Football Coaches' Association to succeed L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, of Texas Christian University . . . . E. A. Bischoff's Bad Play, inactive since last March, stage a successful comeback by capturing the Trumpeter Purse at Tropical Park. The gelding shot to the front at the outset, continued stoutly under pressure and drew away by three and one-half lengths, paying $13.60 for $2.

A PLAIN TALK ABOUT MILK

The Georgia Milk Producers Confederation is vitally interested in the future of the dairy industry in Georgia.

We are interested in it from the standpoint of both the producer and the consumer. We want to see the farmer get a reasonable price for his milk and the public be able to buy good milk as cheaply as possible.

Our organization has sought, since we began business 15 years ago, to pay the producer a top price and to sell to the consumer as low as expenses will justify. The success of this policy is evidenced by the fact that our business has increased twenty-fold over the years.

However, we are prevented by law from selling you milk as cheaply as we would like to do. Or rather, by rules and regulations of the State Milk Control Board which have the effect of law.

Since this Board was created we have tried to persuade them to allow the milk industry in Georgia to give the public at least a 2c per quart saving in cash-and-carry prices. We want to sell YOU milk at our stores for less than you have to pay for it delivered to your home. And there is no selfish motive of trying to build up Georgia's Milk store business to the detriment of other companies' delivery routes, for we operate home delivery routes, too. Also, any other company has the right to operate stores just as we do.

However; the Milk Board refuses to allow this, and in spite of all our pleadings we are unable to give the public this saving.

Therefore, in the realization that the high cost of living makes every penny saved an important matter, we are taking to YOU, the public, the following suggestions for the over-all welfare of the milk industry in Georgia, with the idea in mind that public opinion can force the Milk Control Board to put into effect rules and regulations which will be fair and just to all concerned.

THESE ARE OUR SUGGESTIONS:

1. The Milk Board shall fix the minimum price to be paid the farmer. (It is necessary that this be done to prevent some big milk companies from putting the little dairyman out of business.)

2. The Milk Board shall remove its restrictions on a minimum price to the consumer. (Let the distributor sell, in the stores and delivered, his milk at whatever price he must to meet competition.)

Simply, that is all we propose, but we believe that if these suggestions are carried out the result will be continued development of the dairy industry and a sharp decrease in the cost of milk to the consumer.

There is no chance that the price of milk would rise, because of the fact that there is, for the first time, a surplus of milk in Georgia and competition will keep the price down.

Also, many people do not know that there is no maximum price on milk to the consumer now. A distributor has the right to raise his price to anything he thinks he can get. But, as the public knows, the price per quart remains at the minimum the Milk Board sets. Where, then, could the public lose if the minimum price restriction was removed?

The public wouldn't lose, of course, and neither would the farmer. The present high cost of milk cuts down consumption of dairy products and encourages the sale of products manufactured in other states, such as powdered milk, canned milk, etc. A cut in prices would enable housewives and children to go back to fresh milk, thereby increasing everybody's sales.

In fact, we think that if the Milk Board could devote its full time to other phases of dairying than price regulation, the industry would profit greatly. We do not favor abolishment of the Board, but we do think that their time could be better spent in encouraging production, improving breeding methods, regulating the proper flow of milk throughout all areas and, in general, promoting the industry in Georgia.

IF THERE IS ANY VALID OBJECTION TO THE ABOVE PLAN, WE CAN'T SEE IT. CAN YOU?

Particularly, since if it doesn't work, the Board has the authority under the law to go back to price fixing. Why don't we give it a trial?

IF YOU LIKE THIS IDEA, MR. PRIVATE CITIZEN, LET THE MILK CONTROL BOARD, THE GOVERNOR AND THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY KNOW YOUR VIEWS.

COSTUMES FOR ASSYRIAN

In making the Assyrian costumes it gives you a wonderful opportunity to use your ingenuity. The best materials to give the right effect are duck, cotton flannel, dyed, and unbleached muslin. In making your stencil designs for borders and all-over patterns, remember they used circles and squares.

Thick quilted skirts to the ankles and quilted turbans are often shown in early portraits of the kings. They wore a gold crown, necklets, armlets, and anklets. He sometimes carried a small parasol as a sign of rank. The rigorous climate of Assyria brought forth the high sandal or leather boot.

In order to get the effect of the wool tunic, you must have a soft and closely woven substitute; unbleached domestic of a soft quality stencils well. The jewelry is heavy and barbaric in design. In Assyria and Babylonia stones were very rare, so even pebbles were valuable for decorative purposes.

Remember we are talking about people 2300 and 1000 B. C. Along with the Egyptians were the Ethiopians, Syrians, Phoenicians and the Hebrews. All these had the identical type of tunic dress. The dress gradually became more varied, with the addition of girdles and capes or cloaks. About 2000 B. C., the Babylonian Empire had given place to the Assyrian Empire, which by the year 1300 B. C., had become the most powerful Asiatic state, and had absorbed the entire civilization of Western Asia. The dress, although simple in cut, had reached a high degree of excellence in respect of material and trimming.

The men did not always consider one skirt enough and wore two; the one next to the skin was linen and longer than the upper one, of wool. The richness of the material and the length, as well as the color of the fringes and the manner in which the scarf was worn, plain or crossed, indicated the station of the wearer. A special bleached linen was used b ythe priests, exclusively.

Just think, there were no factories, no machines. All these things were done by hand. Now we have beautiful materials of all kinds. The textile designers take some of these very designs and make our printed silks and cottons and they are very fascinating.

Everything is made so easy now, yet more and more people are finding that the joy of creating and making their own clothes and costumes is a real thrill. From here on out we begin to see the dress take form from the Medes and Persians, an entirely different type of dress.

Instead of the costumes swathing the body worn by the peoples already mentioned, we find breeches or hose and a blouse-like shirt with sleeves. It is going to be very interesting now to see the development in different garments. We just have a few more peoples now leading up to the Greeks and I think I saw in some of the new styles a mention of "the new Greek sunburst pleated look." Well, we will have it.

Lost and Found Worker Puts Two and Two Together

By BETSY HOPKINS

Miss Dorothy Beaton, of 344 Ponce de Leon Ave., who works in the Lost and Found Department of a local department store, spends most of her time putting two and two together.

Not that she's a mathematician. It works this way: If a set of false teeth is turned in to her, and if she finds a fellow banging his gums together, literally, she gives teeth to man, and calls it a job well done.

Miss Beaton has enough stuff turned in to her to open up another department store, with an orphanage in the basement. Girls with coats slung over their petticoats come up to ask about a missing dress. Women with newspapers thrown over their cerebellums come in to ask about a missing wig, and others trudge up, feeling their way around, on the track of some missing glasses.

But about the main thing people lose is other people. Children found screaming in the middle of the toy department; old ladies, bewildered by the department store hurly-burly, and even women who lose their friends, are taken to Lost and Found while the department store protection men traverse the escalators to find the missing parties.

Luckily somebody always claims the people—but the false teeth don't make out so well. Two pairs are still waiting around up there for two people whose mouths are full of wide open spaces.

Quartet Eyed In Police Rob Line-Up

A quartet of men and women have begun a series of lineup appearances at City Jail for robbery victims after police said the men admitted an armed robbery in Gwinnett County.

They were listed as Ann Walls, 24, and Ann Hanson, 19, both of a Bass Street, S. E., address; Newton Gunning, 31, of Grove Park, and James Roland Garmon, 30, of Route 2, Austell.

Gunning and Garmon, a mechanic for an Atlanta taxicab company, admitted the Tuesday night robbery of the Little Casino Restaurant on Highway 78, at the DeKalb-Gwinnett County line, Det. Lt. Glyn Cowan said. He added the women admitted they "were in the vicinity" but denied participation in the holdup.

The four were taken into custody as Atlanta and Fulton County detectives, each unaware that the other was working on the robbery, met unexpectedly at the residences.

Immediately after the arrests Gunning was given treatment for a bullet wound in the left hand. Cowan said the wound was inflicted by a gun that Gunning carried as the bandit ripped a telephone line from the wall in the Gwinnett County restaurant.

Safe Robbers, Shop Breakers Revive Wave

Four safe robberies topped a pre-weekend crime wave, police reports showed yesterday.

Ingenious yeggmen opened three safes at Thompson-Boland-Lee, 201 Peachtree St., N. E., for a haul of $415, mostly in silver, Dets. W. E. Petty and H. F. Brown said. However, they overlooked another which was said to contain more than $1,000.

The fourth safe was ripped open at the Globe Auto Supply Company, 209 Whitehall St., S. W. Ptl. C. A. Cole said burglars forced open the rear door, ripped a hole in the heavy safe and escaped with "several hundred dollars."

At 201 Peachtree, yeggmen climbed onto the roof from the building next door and entered through a skylight, detectives said. They knocked the combination dials from two safes and then punched out the lock tumblers. When the third failed to open as the first two did, they ripped through the side.

In other hauls yeggmen forced an entrance into the American Legion Post 147 at 860 York Ave., S. W., and took $200 from the bar, Det. Sgt. W. D. Anderson and Det. J. N. Gossett said. An attempt to break through a glass window at the Superior Laundry, 665 Spring St., N. W., resulted in a slashed hand for thieves.

The Silver Grill at 900 Boulevard, N. E., lost $14 in change to prowlers who broke through a rear door.

Two Negroes arrested early yesterday admitted an attempted burglary at the Wholesale and Retail Sewing Machine Shop, 167 Whitehall St., S. W., Sgt. G. L. Newton and Ptl. A. L. Elsberry said. The two were listed as Fletcher Burks, Jr., 24, of 224 Linden St., N. E., and Davis Earl Reese, 16, of 57 Yonge St., N .E.

A total of 1,300 pounds of sugar and a quantity of mash were seized with the arrest of Johnny Dorsey, 35, Negro, of 260 Decatur St., S. E., Negro Ptl. W. Strickland and J. E. McKinney reported.

25 Southeastern Solons Studying Law Uniformity

Twenty-five legislative leaders representing six Southeastern States on the Council of State Government are meeting in Atlanta to study uniform laws that would enable the States to better co-operate with each other in law enforcement.

Speaker Pro Tem George L. Smith, II, of the Georgia House of Representatives, is presiding over the sessions which will be concluded today at the Biltmore Hotel.

The delegates from Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia, were entertained at the Executive Mansion last night by Gov. Talmadge.

At its opening session, the group studied a number of proposals for uniform laws that have been drafted by a special committee.

Among them were proposals for uniform control of Bangs disease; a model school bus act to provide uniform regulations; safety laws and inspection of school buses; exchange of tax information between the States; and uniform laws concerning abondonment and support of dependents that would not require extradition from one State to another of defendants charged with abandonment.

Your Mind's Mirror

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Do you need to believe you are "lovable"?

Answer: You'll never be happy in your marriage if you don't, says Dr. Walter R. Stokes, noted marriage counselor. Dr. Stokes lists 15 "compulsive patterns" which in his experience have proved most likely to cause serious marriage difficulties, and says: "All these spring from a fearful necessity to serve a simple childhood apprehension: namely an intense, chronic feeling that one is neither loved nor lovable." If you don't feel you are lovable, there is nothing your partner can do to convince you that he (or she) loves you.

You can spoil a perfect moment by reminding yourself of the "reality" that it can't last forever, but it's just as real—and wiser to dwell on—that it's here now. There's no virtue in facing unpleasant facts if there's nothing you can do about them. You're unrealistic only if you ignore ways in which they can be altered.

Is one married partner ever "solely to blame"?

Answer. No. The abused wife and the henpecked husband may have legal evidence of the wrongs that they have endured, but no evidence can alter two facts: that one person rarely hurts another wholly without provocation; and that, since you married of your own free will, and unconsciously knew more about the person you chose than you probably want to admit, it is more than likely that one of your reasons for picking that person was your own desire to be unkindly treated to excuse your chronic feelings of self-pity and resentment.

Is it unrealistic to "look on the bright side?"

Answer: No. Most experiences have many sides, each as "real" as the others, and it's only sensible to pay most attention to the ones that give you pleasure instead of the ones that hurt you.

Your Stars Today

WHAT TO EXPECT TODAY
Sun in Capricorn

General Tendencies—The moon now has entered the sign Sagittarius, and this is always good for action, sports, outdoor life, quick decisions and often for some travel. It is quite favorable for visits and vacations over this weekend, by the way. There may not be too much concentration or final opinion upon important affairs, but you will find that the entire last part of this month is not particularly good for conclusions in either business or personal matters. People will want to put things off or will neglect important details. Watch for this today.

If It's Your Birthday—You need some extra consideration for health during 1950, not always your own physical condition but perhaps that of someone close to you. Outside responsibilities come your way or else some former connection or debt may return to claim a settlement. You will be wise to stick to the letter of the law in all things, taking no chances with questionable people or risky deals in business. Marriage at this time is not advisable but may come about because of the tendency to follow through with previous interests. Don't look for quick romances this year!

HADASSAH MEETS

Accent On Youth To Be Theme

"Accent on Youth" will be the theme of the Business and Professional Women's Division of Hadassah tomorrow at the Progressive Club at 3:15 p. m. This program is a format to the annual Donor Dinner to be held on Feb. 20, the purpose of which is to fulfill the quota for Youth Commission activities. Miss Sarah Gershon, chairman of the Donor Dinner, will outline plans for the event.

The main feature will include the twenty young voices of the "Followers of Zion," a part of the Young Judean Group in Atlanta who have just returned from Jekyll Island prize winners in a singing competition in the Southern region. They will be introduced by the president, Miss Rosalie Baranowitz, and will present Hebrew melodies.

Mrs. Sydney Q. James will speak on Brandeis University as another phase of emphasis on youth. A report of the Southeastern Regional Conference of Hadassah held in Savannah on January 8-11 will be presented by the delegate from the B&P, Mrs. Rhoda Udinsky, First Vice Chairman and Program Chairman.

Leftover cooked broccoli makes a delicious soup when combined with chicken stock or bouillon and milk. Season well with salt and pepper, an herb or two, and a sliver of garlic. Remove the garlic before serving.

Stale But Still Good

Slice stale pound cake to bread thickness and toast. Serve it with butter or ice cream.

Add cooked rice to omelet for a tasty dish. Add the rice to the yolk mixture before folding into the beaten whites.

Housing Units Planned With Health, Safety Factors

By WILLIAM KERWIN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(INS)—All of the 810,000 housing units the Government expects to build in the next six years will be comfortable apartment-type dwellings equipped with refrigerators and gas ranges.

Pleasantly yet simply designed, the apartments will be well-constructed with emphasis on health and safety factors.

Public Housing Administration officials say the average unit will cost no more than $8,450 and will contain at least four and probably five rooms. This will include living room, dining space, kitchen and bath and two or three bedrooms.

Some of the projects in the larger cities will be equipped with elevators but most of them will be "walk-up" affairs.

Planning on the current program as far as unit features are concerned differs greatly with the old Federal Housing operation.

Previously, the average unit contained 4.5 rooms, including 2.5 bedrooms. Space under the new program will amount to about 5.5 rooms, including from three to 3.5 bedrooms.

In addition, the projects, scheduled for construction starting next Summer, will be decorated with shrubbery and in many cases playgrounds will be located nearby.

Old-Fashioned Potato Candy

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD
Constitution Home Economics Editor

Potato candy seems to have created a mild flurry of telephone calls and letters. Thanks to all of you who sent the recipe we requested for our Jonesboro reader.

Many called to ask if we'd give them the recipe, too, so we will include it in today's column.

Apparently this is a very old recipe that has seldom appeared in even the early cookbooks. We searched through about 30 books as well as our files but no recipe. However, now we have many of them! All the recipes have about the same ingredients and method of mixing. This seems to be a basic one.

IRISH POTATO CANDY

½ cup mashed potato
½ teaspoon salt
About 1 pound sifted Confectioner's sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla or almond extract
1 cup peanut butter

Cook potato and mash fine, adding neither seasoning nor milk. Gradually stir in salt and enough sugar to form an easily handled dough. Add flavoring. On a board lightly sprinkled with confectioner's sugar, roll half of mixture into a rectangle one-fourth inch thick. Spread with half of peanut butter; roll like jelly roll. Repeat with other half dough. Chill; slice. Makes four dozen "wheels."

VARIATIONS OF RECIPE

Several readers substitute sweet potato for Irish potato and like the flavor equally well.

Another reader omits the peanut butter and adds two cups coarsely chopped nuts to the well mixed dough. Then forms it into patties or "bonbons" and tops each with a walnut half.

4 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
7 ♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of spades.

A most remarkable series of cue bids took place when the above hand was played. The North player's repeated cue bids in a suit that his partner had already cued were made to a certain extent out of deviltry, but I am quite persuaded that he did not foresee the far-reaching effect those bids would have on his partner's subsequent bidding. In point of fact, they enabled South to make a very fine decision as to the final contract. It will be noted that a contract of seven hearts would have been doomed to failure.

East's overcall of one spade is not sound strategy. Very little is to be gained by such bids. Better tactics by East would have been a pre-emptive bid of three spades (not too drastic a step when the vulnerable conditions are taken into consideration). This would have made it virtually impossible for the opposition to reach seven diamonds, and they would have had to be content with a small slam. South's immediate cue bid of two spades, showing no losers in that suit, is justified after partner responds with one heart, which makes slam prospects very bright. North decided to take things easy and allow space for further conversation, by merely bidding three diamonds. South now showed the heart support and North bid three spades.

Since partner has shown a void of the suit, it is doubtful that he will enjoy hearing about the ace, but North felt it could do no harm. South's next bid of four clubs was routine, and North countered with a spectacular repeat cue bid in spades. This bid could have no other meaning than an intent to show the king of the adverse suit.

South all along had been planning to play the hand in hearts, but the information that his partner had the ace and king of spades caused him to change his mind. If the hearts were not solid, South's two losers in that suit could be discarded on the ace and king of spades. It was reasonable to assume that North held both red kings and he was willing to gamble on a singleton club in partner's hand. At the very worst the success of the hand would depend upon the spade bidder having the king of clubs.

He, therefore, bid seven diamonds, which contract was easily fulfilled by setting up dummy's hearts after South discarded two of the suit.

RHYMIN' TIME

MOST WORKERS EARNED LESS IN '49

Work Clothing Industry Is Hit by Pay Minimum

More than 60 percent of the workers in Georgia plants manufacturing work clothing earned less than 75 cents an hour—the new minimum wage which will go into effect in interstate commerce Jan. 25.

The average wage of workers in that industry was 70 cents in August, 1949, B. A. Bagdon, Director of the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Southern Regional Office, reported yesterday.

Another Georgia industry which will be heavily affected by the new wage minimum is dress shirt manufacturing, the BLS survey showed. More than 45 percent of its workers earn less than 75 cents an hour, but the industry average is 83 cents.

Those earning less than the minimum in the shirt industry were not far below it in most cases, however. About 90 percent of the employees in the industry are women, whose average pay is 81 cents an hour. Men employees averaged 98 cents. Earnings ranged from 40 cents to $1.60 an hour. Men employees averaged 98 cents. Earnings ranged from 40 cents to $1.60 an hour. Sewing machine workers, more than half of them women, averaged 84 cents an hour. Men employed as machine cutters averaged $1.28.

In the work clothing industry, nearly 85 percent of the workers are women. Their pay averaged 69 cents. Men averaged 78 cents.

Sewing machine operators in work clothing accounted for about 50 percent of the workers, said the BLS, and averaged 71 cents an hour in August. Men employed as sewing machine repairmen averaged $1.05 an hour. The range of earnings in the industry was from less than 40 cents to more than $1.50 an hour.

To Begin Incinerator Job

Actual construction on the new incinerator expansion costing $1,287,000 will begin next week. Standard Construction Co., of Columbus, has the construction contract calling for an outlay of $1,172,000, but engineering fees and other costs will push the total to the $1,287,000 figure. When the new Volund unit, a Danish patent, is completed capacity will be doubled. Stafford W. Graydon, City Health Engineer, says garbage fills then will be abandoned and facilities will be available to salvage enough waste from the incinerator to pay the complete cost of construction and operation. Last year, the City sold $87,000 worth of salvage tin cans and approximately $89,000 worth of steam generated in the existing plant. Graydon says the figures will rise sharply when the expansion program is completed.

Long Search Ends

Mayor Hartsfield's Boy Scout act has paid off. Several days ago, he asked The Constitution to help him find relatives of Mrs. June G. Burns, of London. As the result, Mrs. Maudelle Powell Hinton, Mrs. Burns' aunt, wrote the Mayor that she had written Mrs. Burns she could contact her father, Julian Grady Powell, in San Francisco. Mrs. Hinton thanked The Constitution for helping end a long search by the father. She said he went to England shortly after the war but failed to contact Mrs. Burns. Mrs. Hinton lives at 705 Piedmont Ave., N. E., and is employed by an advertising agency.

School Board To Meet

The Atlanta Board of Education will meet in special session at 11 a. m. today to award a contract for construction of a combination cafeteria-auditorium for Crew St. school. Dye Construction was low bidder at $89,600. Other bids ranged up to $102,486. Construction and other expenses including architect's fees push the total cost of the project to $95,929.88 with only $87,000 earmarked for the work. A. Kennon Perry is architect on the improvement.

To Seek Certificates

Issuance of $750,000 worth of waterworks certificates to help finance the 1950 expansion program will be asked Monday in City Council. Comptroller Lawrence James said the certificates were authorized in 1949 but were not needed. An additional $1,200,000 in certificates can be issued in 1950 if the expansions warrant it.

Lakewood Park Plans

Mike Benton, President of the Southeastern Fair Association, which leases City-owned Lakewood Park, informed Mayor Hartsfield that extensive improvements of the grounds will be undertaken between November, this year, and April, next year. He said he is signing contracts for only one year with concessionaries at the show-place in order to have the grounds cleared for the improvements when the Fair ends this Fall. Benton said plans call for razing all non-fire-resistant structures and replacing them with structures of fire-resistant materials. He added a huge grading program will change the contours of the grounds, making them more attractive and usable.

Dennis Initiated

Councilman Robert S. Dennis, newly-named Council representative on the Board of Zoning Appeals, has received his first baptism under fire. He sat through his first session and joined in turning down variations sought for a Negro apartment development.

Mayor Confers, Speaks

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday conferred with William Slack, of Gainesville, and with Burton Bell, public relations officer for the U. S. Engineering Corps, on plans for starting work on the $42,000,000 Buford Dam. He also spoke to the North Side Kiwanis Club. During the afternoon, he talked with Dr. A. L. Curtis, who owns some property affected by the expressway development, and with M. C. Bishop, Atlanta businessman.

Permits History

Fulton County Building Inspector Guy Eaves can trace much of the development of Metropolitan Atlanta area during the past three years through activities handled by his office. During this time the county has issued 32,771 building permits and collected some $180,925.49 in fees which were turned over to the Treasurer. The total value of new construction turned over to tax officers for placing on the taxable digest exceeded $63,547,094, Eaves said.

Coal Pinch Due for 'Few'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A cautiously worded report from the Federal Bureau of Mines last night said "some individual cases of hardship" may result from an uneven distribution of coal stocks coupled with consumer demands for certain types of coal.

The Bureau reported that coal stocks in dealers' yards on Jan. 1 averaged four days' supply, compared with a five-day average supply a month earlier.

The report, however, did not take issue with President Truman's statement at his Thursday news conference that there is no present national emergency in coal.

The Bureau showed some optimism about the spot shortages brought on by the United Mine Workers' three-day work week and a series of wildcat strikes in scattered mines.

CAP Cadets Join Air Guard In Maneuvers

Atlanta Area Civil Air Patrol Cadets are slated to represent personnel being flown out of this section under emergency conditions tomorrow afternoon as part of the cadets' joint maneuvers with the Georgia Air National Guard.

The 216th Air Service Group Headquarters Detachment, under command of Maj. William D. Caldwell, will conduct the simulated air evacuation.

Other phases of the maneuvers, which will assemble more than 100 CAP Cadets at the Marietta Army Air Force Base at 3 p. m., include instruction in military aviation, talks by National Guard officers, showing of a documentary film on the Air National Guard, and inspection of maintenance operations, parachute loft and aircraft on the flight line.

Service Record Vital in Race

Candidates for Atlanta's "Young Man of the Year" award must have an outstanding service record, judges emphasized yesterday.

Judging will be based on the nominee's contribution to community and State welfare and betterment, participation in all-around community and State activities and civic enterprises, evidence of lasting contribution to community and State welfare, evidence of leadership ability, success in own vocation and personal business progress, and co-operation with individuals and civic organizations.

The award is made by the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce, but the nominee need not be a member of this organization, officials pointed out.

All nominations must be received by Leon Goldstein at 458 Peachtree St., N. E., by midnight Thursday.

Council Hits Truman Program

The board of directors of the Southern States Industrial Council, concluding its meeting in Atlanta on Friday, passed resolutions pledging itself "to help rescue this country from Socialism and to restore to the individual citizen the freedom which is rightly his under the Constitution of the United States."

To that end, the Board declared war on the program of President Truman and asserted its belief in both freedom and security "under a system of competitive free enterprise."

Sen. Byrd, of Virginia, spoke at the annual banquet of this organization Thursday night.

Wilson Indicted

A man who once gained national recognition for his rescue of a dog from Stone Mountain has been indicted by Fulton County Grand Jury on charges of asault with intent to murder. The indictment charged that George C. Wilson, alias Luther C. Wells, had cut, stabbed and wounded John C. Davis, of 1073 Euclid Ave., N. E. Atlanta Dets. L. T. Bullard and J. E. Helms had reported the stabbing as occurring Nov. 30 near 92 Piedmont St. They identified Wilson as the man who had made a daring removal of the stranded dog from an inaccessible spot on the mountain.

Awards 55 Divorces

Friday the thirteenth held little superstition for the principals involved in a heavy slate of uncontested divorce suits, according to Joe H. Bush, Domestic Relations Clerk in Fulton Superior Court. With a total of 84 cases on the day's calendar, Superior Court Judges Walter C. Hendrix and George P. Whitman, Sr., awarded 55 divorces. By contrast the Thursday calendar numbered 75 suits with 66 couples obtaining divorces.

Trace Pistol

The pawning of a pistol this past Christmas Eve reported stolen on Christmas Day, 1948, has led to the indictment of a Negro already serving a public works sentence. The Grand Jury indicted J. C. Brannon, Jr., alias Coy Marks, for burglary. City detectives reported they had traced the gun's serial numbers from the pawn shop to the original owner, implicating Brannon, whom they reported had confessed. Brannon was found in the County's Stonewall Camp.

Lay Announces 1949 Volume Gain

A 13 percent increase in dollar volume for 1949 over 1948 was announced by H. W. Lay, President of H. W. Lay and Company, Inc., at the annual sales meeting here.

Officials and sales personnel of the company, which produces potato chips and other food products, gathered from throughout the Southeast for the two-day meeting on sales plans for 1950. The company, one of the largest of its type in the South, operates plants and warehouses in eight states.

The two-day meeting will close tonight at the annual banquet at the Henry Grady Hotel.

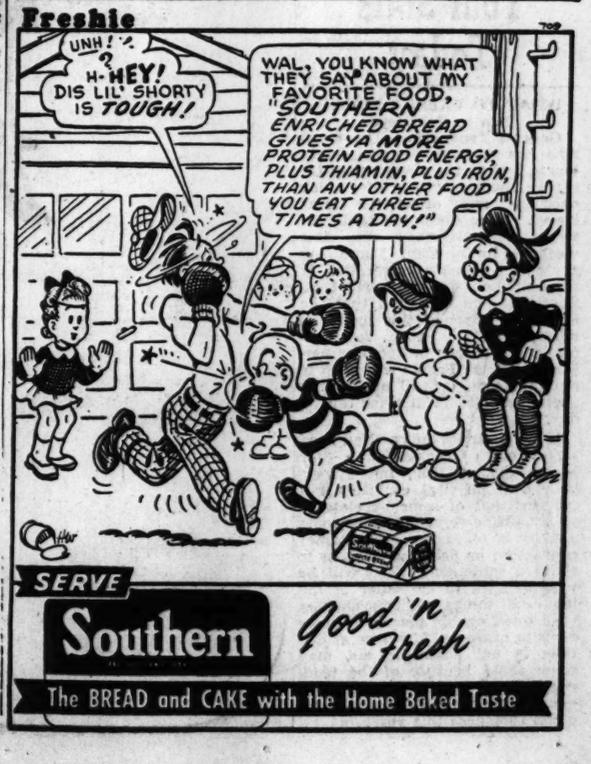

IN MERCER VOTE

Arnall Leads

MACON—(AP)—Former Gov. Ellis Arnall is an almost three-to-one favorite over Gov. Talmadge for election as Governor this year among Mercer University students, a campus poll indicated today.

The poll, conducted by the Young People's League for Better Government, gave Arnall 63 percent, Talmadge 23 percent and former Gov. Thompson 13 percent.

Field Representative Joe Bernd and Chairman Bill McClellan, of the League's opinion committee, conducted the poll. Bernd said the League is conducting similar polls at other schools throughout the State and results will be announced soon.

PAROLED STEPFATHER HELD

Boy, 4, Lashed With Rope Till 'Back Felt Like Mush'

PASCAGOULA, Miss.—(AP)—A four-year-old boy was lashed with a doubled rope until his back and chest "felt like mush," Police Chief E. E. Blakeney reported yesterday.

Blakeney said little Charles B. Donsereaux and his two-year-old sister are under treatment at a Pascagoula hospital, and their stepfather, a prison parolee, is being questioned.

The boy is in poor condition. His two-year-old sister, Caroline, also was badly beaten, but her condition is less serious, the officer added.

The Police Chief reported that the stepfather, Alvin Bostick, 32-year-old odd jobs man, is being held on an open charge, pending outcome of the boy's condition.

Bostick is a parolee from the Pennsylvania State Prison where he had been serving a 20-year sentence for robbery, Blakeney said.

Blakeney said he had learned that the beatings had been going on since the family moved here from New Orleans last Spring.

A neighbor reported the case, telling Blakeney the boy's screams could be heard for two blocks.

Blakeney and two other officers found the mother of the children in bed suffering from bruises of the face and head. She told them she had fallen from a chair while hanging curtains.

"I went to the boy and kneeled down and started asking him questions," Blakeney said. "When I put my hand on his back it felt like mush. I raised his shirt and saw the terrible cuts and places where the flesh had been gouged out.

"I found out the boy had been beaten because he wet in bed. He'd also been beaten in the afternoon because he wouldn't get out of the house and play."

'THE OTHER WOMAN'

Editor Olmstead Charged

By YOLANDE GWIN

"The Other Woman" steals your husband and wrecks your home.

She's the seldom-seen menace of the Great American family. She's the glamor girl and subtle siren who lures that young man you promised to "love, honor and obey" to a secret rendezvous where there are low lights and soft music.

And now here is our Agnes Reasor Olmstead whom Atlanta women are branding as "the other woman" in their life, the woman who has changed their husband from a considerate, well-fed man to a raging fiend who claims his money is being thrown away. A man who left home yesterday morning with fire in his eye, his temper at the boiling point and his affections, his praise and undying devotion pledged to Agnes Reasor Olmstead, The Constitution's Home Economics Editor.

And why?

It was the chart in the paper yesterday morning on "How to Serve Dinner for Four for $1."

Husbands read the chart and began thinking—and then began charging their wives with extravagance, with the result that the wives charged Mrs. Olmstead as a homewrecker.

Phones in the Woman's Department of The Constitution rang all day with such comments as this:

"My husband has cut the food allowance just because you printed that chart! Do you realize what that means?"

"What makes you think four people can eat like you suggest? Nobody wants to starve to death."

"My husband says it's too bad I couldn't be as smart as you and save money."

"I'll bet you haven't tried any of these dishes . . . it's just something for you to write about!"

"My grocer doesn't have those prices and do you expect me to run all over town looking for them?"

"No wonder you are slim, if you eat meals like you write about . . . but my family won't stand for it!"

And so it went, all day yesterday. Mad housewives, madder husbands and upset food budgets. And Agnes (The Other Woman) Olmstead? She went lunching with husband Earl, knowing full well that all of her chart was based on accurate figures, tested in her own home and perfect for any housewife who can manage.

Deep-Frying Hint

Temperatures for deep frying vary according to foods. Raw doughs and batters including doughnuts and fritters should be fried in oil from 360 to 375 degrees, or when it will take a one-inch cube of bread 60 seconds to brown.

The beautiful soprano will be heard singing the title role in Donizetti's "Lucia Di Lammermoor." Supporting her will be a superlative cast consisting of Jan Peerce, Francesco Valentino, Leslie Chabay, Jerome Hines, Thelma Votipka and Thomas Hayward.

Symphonic Music

Music by Beethoven and Frescobaldi will be featured during the hour-long NBC Symphony concert beginning at 6:30 p. m. over WSB. With Guido Cantelli conducting the orchestra will open with "Four Pieces" by Frescobaldi and devote the remainder of the program to Beethoven's Dance Symphony ,or "Symphony No. 7."

Light Opera

Sigmund Romberg's thrilling light opera, "Desert Song," will be given a radio adaptation over WGST-MBS Chicago Theater of the Air tonight from 10 to 11. With Nancy Carr in the role of "Margot," Thomas L. Thomas as the "Red Shadow"; Earle Wilkie as "Ali," and Robert Harris as "Sid," the program promises delightful listening and includes such popular melodies as "Desert Song," "One Alone," "The Riff Song" and "Let Love Come."

Wage and Hour Talks

First in a series of four radio talks on the recent amendments to the Federal Wage and Hour Law will be aired over WCON at 7 p. m. when News Director Don Elliott will interview Henry A. Huettner, Investigation Supervisor for the Wage and Hour Division's Georgia office. Other talks to follow will be announced later.

Series for Vets

A six weeks' series of timely tips "from the manager's desk" will be beamed to Georgia veterans via WCON beginning this evening at 6:45. Vaux Owen, Manager, Georgia Regional Office of the Veterans Administration, will conduct the series which schedules material to aid veterans and their dependants This evening's broadcast deals with hospitalization for veterans and the manner in which veterans may get quick service from the VA.
